Chiang Sees Swing By Winter's End

CHUNGKING (AP) — Gen. Chiang Kai-shek marked the start of a sixth year of war with Japan today (Tuesday) with a broadcast in which he declared that "by the end of this winter Japan's strength will be only one-tenth of that of the Allies."

He thanked the United Nations for their unflinching concern and collaboration and declared that Japan, plunging deeper and deeper into the morass of Chinese resistance, "now is beyond recovery."

(The Japanese launched the war by attacking the Marco Polo bridge July 7, 1937. See Churchill and Roosevelt messages page 3).

Capone Settles

CHICAGO (AP) — Al Capone, former Chicago gang leader, and seven others have settled a government suit for collection of $119,367 in beer taxes for $30,000, it was announced this afternoon by Austin Hall, assistant U.S. attorney in charge of civil litigation. It dates back to 1925.

Hints Oil Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Cordell Hull appealed today for "much more severe" rationing and control of oil supplies in the western hemisphere areas dependent on tanker shipment. He warned that the shortage of tankers is rapidly becoming more acute.

Vancouver Flier Killed

OTTAWA (CP) — R.C.A.F. headquarters today identified as Sgt. Harry Hector Lavine of Bridgewater, Conn., and Cpl. Alexander Gordon McFarley of Vancouver as the men killed Saturday when their plane crashed into the Blanche River near Krugerdorf, Ont., eight miles north of Englehart.

Victorian Drowns

William Wallen, whose wife lives at 3856 Washington Avenue, and G. Sundvall, information of whom is lacking, were drowned Sunday at Port Alice when their gasboat caught fire and they were compelled to dive overboard. News of the accident was received in Victoria by B.C. Police radio.

According to the police report, the boat was proceeding from Rock Quarry to Port Alice. A third man, Carl Larsen, managed to make shore and notified Constable C. A. Bellhouse, who instituted a search for the bodies of the two men.

1,000 Houses, Flats Affected By Move

"Removal from Victoria of the army, navy and air force establishments and the whole Pacific Command, means 1,000 empty houses and apartments here," said Joseph C. Bridgman of the Victoria Real Estate Exchange today.

He saw compensation in the fact that with the services headquarters removed, Victoria would be more likely safe from bombing as attack on the headquarters of the services has been what has been feared. He doubted any greater degree of safety for the headquarters was gained by removal to Vancouver, as for an aircraft carrier lying off the west coast of Vancouver Island flying time for a bomber to Vancouver is less than to Victoria.

Peg U.S. Dollar, Peso

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. and Cuba today signed an agreement designed to stabilize the exchange rate of the Cuban peso and the U.S. dollar.

Mir Sailor, Jailed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Angelo F. Palazzo, an Italian, was sentenced to three months at hard labor by Magistrate Mackenzie Matheson here today for assaulting Seaman John D. Berryman, R.C.N.

Struan Robertson Killed in Texas

Struan T. Robertson, age 24, outstanding Victoria scholar, son of B. L. Robertson, formerly of Victoria, and the late Mrs. Robertson, died June 30 at Camp Wallace (Texas) Station Hospital, as a result of injuries suffered in a train accident close by, according to information received in Victoria today.

Robertson had been discharged from the United States army to accept a commission in the United States Navy. He was en route from Camp Wallace to San Francisco to join the navy when he was injured.

His sister, Mrs. D. S. Barlow, Langley, B.C., was to have met him in San Francisco.

Born in Tacoma, Wash., Robertson was a brilliant student, who without money or influence, won esteem in scholastic circles not only in British Columbia, but also in California. He was the winner of numerous scholarships.

He attended Victoria High School from 1932 to 1935. He won the high school entrance medal. While at Victoria High School he was president of the Students Council and won the Leader Cup. At Victoria College from 1935 to 1937, he won the Kathleen Agnew scholarship of $100 for proficiency in Canadian History. In his second year he won two $50 bursaries, one in French. He was president of the Students Council.

Continuing at University of B.C. in 1937, Robertson graduated in 1939 with first class honors in economics.

Robertson left Victoria in August, 1939, for Berkeley, where, until February, 1942, he served as a teaching fellow at the University of California while working for his Doctor of Philosophy degree. He received the degree this spring and joined the U.S. Army.

He was in Victoria during last Christmas vacation.

Besides his sister, he is survived by his father, who is living in Langley. His mother died this spring. He was a cousin of Mrs. Elmer Holm, Campbell River, and Lieut. Owen Robertson, R.C.N. V.R., both formerly of Victoria.

Million Nazis Batter at Kursk Front Sink 3 Jap Destroyers in Aleutians

Seek to Sever Vital Railway, Cut Off Moscow

LONDON (CP) — The Germans have thrown more than 1,000,000 troops into the Kursk offensive in a massive wheeling operation in an attempt to overrun the approaches to the Caucasus, a military informant, not quotable by name, declared today.

Gen. Heinz Guderian's second tank group was said to be leading the drive eastward, and the Germans were reported as having 1,500 first-line aircraft deployed to exploit any major German success.

The present battle is being fought on a 120-mile front from east of Orel to east of Kharkov. Military experts predicted the Germans would create a major diversion on the northeast shore of the Black Sea, employing Nazi troops from the Kerch Peninsula. This drive probably would be aimed directly at Rostov, gateway to the oil regions.

Cutting of Railway Tactical Objective

The tactical objective of the Ukraine offensive is to sever the Moscow-Voronezh-Rostov railway, the last remaining lateral communication from Moscow to Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's army group in the south. The Vichy radio, frequently an avenue for German propaganda, said today the line had been cut.

Guderian's headlong assault— spearheaded by the relatively small force of three armored, two motorized and five veteran infantry divisions—has forced the Russians back in the Voronezh region.

Reds Fight Fiercely To Save Voronezh

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia's defending armies, fighting wave after wave of Nazi tanks and infantry on the fields strewn with dead and wounded, sought desperately today to stem an offensive aimed at the important Don River and the strategic city of Voronezh on the Moscow-Rostov railway.

(The German high command claimed Axis spearheads striking out from the Kursk-Kharkov line had reached the Don "on a broad front." If this claim is true, the Germans are perilously close to the Moscow-Rostov railroad line, which for 50 miles south of Voronezh runs about 10 miles east of the Don.)

The struggle, which has developed into a full-scale Nazi offensive, is taking place in a rough triangle with Kursk and Kharkov in the west and Voronezh in the east as its points. The fiercest fighting is in progress around the cities of Belgorod and Volchansk in the Kharkov corner.

Interned in Hongkong

Don Robbins, well-known Victorian, and his wife and daughter, are interned in Stanley Camp, Hongkong, according to a cable received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Robbins, of Patricia Bay, from London, through the Red Cross.

British Wrest Offensive From Axis in Egypt

By HARRY CROCKETT

CAIRO (AP) — New Zealand's gallant Maori troops, part of the British Army of the Nile, struck German infantrymen in a bayonet attack by the light of the desert moon Sunday night to clinch gains won for the second consecutive day in the epic struggle for the El Alamein approach to Alexandria.

(Meanwhile in Berne a Berlin dispatch to the Basel newspaper National Zeitung quoted German military circles today as admitting the British army has succeeded in bringing up enough reserves to take the offensive in the Battle of Egypt.)

(Reports from Rome to the Geneva Tribune said that following the Axis breakthrough near El Alamein the Italians had not expected such resistance as the British troops were offering.)

At the end of a full day of fierce fighting under a scorching sun, the Maoris—descendants of warlike Polynesian tribes—charged into battle, their bayonets flashing.

Take Strongpoint From Axis Forces

The British Middle East command reported that in the day and night operations a strongpoint was wrested from the Axis troops of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, a bare 80 miles short of the British naval base of Alexandria at the delta of the Nile.

Heavy casualties were inflicted on the enemy in this night engagement. British casualties were described officially as "slight."

Allied planes were continuing their active part in the operations in Egypt today, blasting at Axis troop concentrations and supply lines.

Especially heavy attacks were made Sunday on the enemy airfield at El Daba, 35 miles west of El Alamein, where at least 14 planes were damaged on the ground, the communique said. Six German planes were destroyed in air combats Sunday and many others were said to have been damaged.

The loss of six British planes was announced.

Dispatches from the front said British forces were wheeling up their artillery to blast away over open sights at Rommel's tanks.

"Although military circles said a severe check had been delivered to Rommel's ambitions, they hesitated to suggest yet that he might turn back to the Libyan frontier."

Military quarters said the new Axis withdrawal was purely local in character, but it was hoped here that by maintaining the initiative British forces might keep Rommel off balance and thwart his attempts to regroup his forces for a fresh assault.

It is the general feeling the outlook in Egypt has improved greatly from the British point of view during the past few days.

Enemy Suffering Lack of Supplies

Partly responsible for this mounting optimism are dispatches from the front indicating the Axis forces, weary from their swift 350-mile push across the desert, are beginning to suffer from lack of adequate supplies of food and water as a result of the heavy pounding of their extended communication lines by Allied airmen.

R.A.F. pilots returning from bombing missions told how they had spotted one huge concentration of 3,500 Axis supply trucks west of El Alamein and plastered it with high explosives.

Dispatches from Turkey said there are unconfirmed reports in Ankara that the Germans are moving mechanized equipment down through the Balkans to sea ports near Athens, apparently with the intention of shipping it across the Mediterranean to replace losses in North Africa.

To Produce Commando Film Here

Paul Muni and Merle Oberon Head Cast; Local Actors Needed

Paul Muni, academy award winner, will star in a star-studded cast to produce this movie for the production of the film version of C. S. Forester's best-selling war story "The Commandos," Gordon Wiles, production designer engaged by Columbia Pictures Inc. for the picture, announced today.

The picture, to be made entirely in Victoria and the surrounding territory, has been guaranteed the complete co-operation of the Canadian army, navy and air force.

It will cost $1,000,000 or more and will be rated an A-plus picture.

Hundreds of local actors will be engaged as extras and those with particular talent will be given important bit parts, Mr. Wiles explained.

MERLE OBERON STARS

Playing opposite Mr. Muni, according to present plans, will be Merle Oberon. Maureen O'Sullivan will carry another important role, while her husband, Lt. Cmdr. John Farrow, R.C.N., will be director.

Sir Cedric Hardwicke, whose wife played here Saturday night in "Celebrity Parade," has also been signed and negotiations are proceeding to have Edmund Gwenn, of "The Good Companions," the Gish sisters, Lillian and Dorothy, Alexander Knox, noted English stage star, and Arthur Hodge participate in the film.

Production personnel began arriving from Hollywood today to join Mr. Wiles who himself has won an academy award for his specialty of designing and tagging productions. For seven years he was a director, assisting in "Gone With the Wind" and extending his reputation with "The Moon and Sixpence."

"We will be engaging literally hundreds of local extras and should leave a lot of money in this city," Mr. Wiles said. "When we are ready for them a call will be sent out. Our work this time is in the nature of a good will gesture between Canada and the United States. We will be producing the hard way, bringing in all equipment and experts."

In addition to Harve Foster, unit production manager, and Edward Jewell, art director, a studio sketch artist, studio draftsman and other technical personnel arrived today. They will enlist local specialists to assist them in their duties.

USE EXHIBITION BUILDING
The Main Building at the Willows Exhibition Grounds will be used for indoor shots. Soundproofing will start there immediately. In the outdoor work on Saanich Arm authentic equipment and personnel will be used, with Maj. Gus Sivertz assisting in arrangements.

"Everything, short of interference with operational control and defence activity, will be done to assist the production. We realize the importance of this picture and Ottawa has given us a straight go-ahead signal for the job," Maj. Sivertz said. "The production will not entail withdrawal of any men or equipment from points where they are needed."

Lester Cowan, former head of the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences, originator of the award, now operating as an independent producer and releasing "The Commandos" through Columbia Pictures, will produce the picture. His most recent success is "Ladies in Retirement," a story adapted from the New York stage success.

The actual story of "The Commandos" is that of the stirring resentment and undercover work of Norwegian patriots whose activities brought the commando-type troops into special prominence. It has been rated by reviewers as one of the outstanding fiction stories of the present war.

'GERMAN' ARMY
A complete Norwegian village will have to be populated here for the production and a complete "German" army will be required.

Production will start on July 16 or 17 and the picture should be finished in about eight weeks. "Should this picture be the success we expect it to be, it will be the beginning of a new moving picture industry for Victoria handling grade A productions," Mr. Wiles said.

Air Show Nets $5,100

The sum of $5,100 was banked here today to the credit of the Air Marshal W. A. Bishop fund for the Aid Cadet League of Canada, proceeds of the visit of "Celebrity Parade."

Maj. R. H. B. Ker, Dominion director of the league, said the total was derived from seat sales, donations and sale of souvenir programs.

"It was highly gratifying," he said, "not only from a monetary viewpoint but for the valuable publicity and increased understanding by the public as to the purpose of the air cadet movement in this country."

In Cairo, Says Paris

LONDON (CP) — The Paris radio broadcast a report today that Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, commander-in-chief in India, had arrived at Cairo and gone into immediate conference with Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, his successor as commander-in-chief for the Middle East.

Raise Over $1,500 In Hole in One

A sum exceeding $1,500 was realized from the hole-in-one contest, and will be forwarded to the Solarium, it was announced at the regular luncheon meeting of the Gyro Club today in Terry's dining room. A cheque for this amount will be presented to representatives of the Solarium at a luncheon meeting in the near future, following the suggestion by Louis Glazen, head of the committee. This sum is several hundred dollars above the amount donated last year.

In thanking members for the work and resulting success of the event, Mr. Glazen remarked that many crippled children will "now be made happier."

"It was an outstanding success," he added.

It was announced that the lack of golf balls might mean that the annual contest could not be held next year. Art Minnis suggested members start to collect balls now.

Living Up .6

OTTAWA (CP) — The Dominion Bureau of Statistics cost of living index advanced from 116.1 at May 1 to 116.7 at June 1, the bureau reported today.

The index rose a total of 15.8 per cent between August, 1939, and June, 1942. An increase in the food index from 124.3 to 126.2 was responsible for the latest change.

U.S. Submarines Leave 4th Ship Blazing Fiercely

WASHINGTON (AP) — The navy today announced United States submarines had sunk three Japanese destroyers in the Aleutian Islands July 4 and had left a fourth destroyer "burning fiercely."

The communique said:

"North Pacific area: 'On the fourth of July, U.S. submarines torpedoed four Japanese destroyers in the Aleutian Islands.

"Three of these destroyers were attacked at Kiska. Two were sunk and the third, when last seen, was burning fiercely.

"The fourth destroyer was torpedoed and sunk at Agattu, where enemy transports and escorting vessels were located July 2 and were attacked by army bombers."

5 Ships Now Sunk, 9 Others Damaged

Today's navy report raised Japan's losses in her efforts to establish occupation forces on the Western Aleutians to five ships sunk—three destroyers, one cruiser and one transport—and nine damaged, including an aircraft carrier.

All the attacks prior to the Independence Day submarine offensive had been made by army and navy aircraft, which have been limited in their operations by the infrequency of favorable weather.

All the natives and the few white residents have been evacuated from the western Aleutians and from the Pribilof Islands in the Bering Sea north of Dutch Harbor.

William Zimmerman Jr., assistant Indian commissioner, reported today that the evacuees, numbering somewhat fewer than 1,000, had been taken by the navy to Juneau, where the Indian bureau has providing housing.

The Japanese landing at Attu, however, was said by delegate Dimond of Alaska to have prevented the evacuation of the few residents of that island. There were no natives at Kiska, where the Japanese also landed.

U.S. Bombers Wait For Rifts in Fog

This has not deterred the army from bombing the enemy's shore installations and any other available targets whenever a rift in the fog permits. A navy communique Saturday reported four attacks by army bombers, supported by navy patrol planes, from June 21 to July 3.

Zimmerman said the evacuees included one or two white teachers, three nurses and a few white traders. The others were native Aleuts.

Some 450 persons were evacuated from the Pribilof Islands of St. George and St. Paul, 80 from Atka, a small group from Umnak and probably 120 persons will be removed from Unalaska.

Dimond said he had recommended to the navy that the natives be evacuated from all of the easternmost Aleutian Islands to safeguard them from injury and possible war action.

400 Tons Transferred

More than 400 tons of office furniture, files and other office equipment from Work Point Barracks military headquarters were transferred by barges to Vancouver over the week-end. Companies of guards, who traveled on the barges to watch over the shipment, had to sleep without bunks and had to eat only lunches they packed with themselves and packages of beer which were handed to them as they left Victoria.

One fleet of motor trucks was transferred to Vancouver yesterday and more are to go this week as shipping accommodation becomes available.

H. H. Stevens Asks King to Resign

VANCOUVER (CP)—Hon. H. H. Stevens, former Minister of Trade and Commerce and Minister of Customs in Conservative administrations, who formed the Reconstruction Party to contest the 1935 general election, in a statement today expressed the view Prime Minister Mackenzie King should resign to make way for a national government that would include representatives of labor, agriculture, industry and finance as well as political parties.

A government formed on a national basis would have support of the majority of the people and would be in a position to solve "the many problems which at present baffle a purely partisan government," Mr. Stevens said. The government he recommended would include three representatives of labor, three of agriculture, representatives of industry and finance, four Liberals, two Conservatives, one C.C.F. and one New Democrat.

"I place labor first... because in my opinion labor has been largely ignored since the outbreak of the war," Mr. Stevens said. "This has been in definite contrast to the position of the government in Britain."

Mr. Stevens ran unsuccessfully as a National Government candidate in Kamloops riding in the federal election of 1940.

Synthetic Rubber From Grain, Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson protested today against a proposed program to produce synthetic rubber from grain on the ground that it would require critical materials "urgently needed for the war effort."

Opposing a bill calling for creation of a rubber supply agency to direct manufacture of synthetic rubber from grain alcohol, Nelson told a Senate agriculture subcommittee sponsoring the measure that construction of such distilleries would require copper and steel.

"Every pound of copper and steel taken away from our present supply," he asserted, "would hinder the war program. And that is of paramount interest."

Pilot Stainforth Bags Nazi Bomber

CAIRO (AP)—One of the pilots who brought down German bombers over the Suez Canal area Saturday night was Wing Cmdr. George H. Stainforth, winner of the Schneider Trophy in 1932.

At 44 he is the oldest active fighter pilot in the R.A.F. The Vickers supermarine plane with a Rolls-Royce motor, with which Stainforth won the Schneider Trophy, later was developed into the speedy Hurricane fighter-bomber.

No Injury in Total Wreck

George Harold Gavel, a soldier in the R.C.O.C., appeared in police court today absolutely unscathed and was fined $30 or six days for dangerous driving which resulted in the army car (above) being completely smashed on Quadra Street at 5:10 Sunday morning.

According to testimony Gavel was driving the car south on Quadra Street when it went out of control at Tolmie Avenue. The car traveled 54 feet 11 inches along the west curb, sheered off a telephone pole at the base, traveled another seven feet and uprooted a boulevard tree, continued 58 feet 10 inches along the west curb, swerved to the east side of the road and stopped after traveling another 58 feet.

Testifying in court Constable R. Davidson said pieces of the car were strewn the whole distance from where the vehicle first struck to where it ended. Three wheels were torn off.

Gavel also had his driver's license suspended for three months.

Sgt. John Blackstock and Constables R. Davidson and Tom Banister attended the accident.

Reporters Heard At Chaloult Trial

MONTREAL (CP)—Newspapermen held the stage today as Rene Chaloult, Liberal member of the Quebec Legislature for Lotbiniere, appeared before Judge Edouard Archambault in the court of sessions on a charge laid under the Defence of Canada Regulations after a public address delivered here May 19.

The complaint charges Mr. Chaloult with making declarations and affirmations before several thousand persons which would cause disaffection to the King; prejudice the success of His Majesty's armies and the armies of the Allied nations and their associates; prejudice recruiting and training and discipline of His Majesty's armies; prejudice the security of the state and the successful prosecution of the war.

REPORTERS TESTIFY

Four Montreal reporters testified during the morning session. Mayer N. Negru of the Gazette said he had covered the meeting at which Mr. Chaloult spoke and thought he had written a fair report of the address. He said he checked his notes with Mr. Chaloult after the meeting so as to avoid any possibility of misrepresentation, and that Mr. Chaloult, after making some corrections, had congratulated him on the "excellence" of his notes.

Answering a question by Crown Prosecutor Gerald Fauteux, Negru said he had checked with Mr. Chaloult on the word "hoped," used in a statement by the accused that "he hoped that Canada would sever its Imperial ties after the war and join a pan-American union."

Paul Sauriol of Le Devoir said he had reported Chaloult's address, while his confrere, Lucien Ayotte, had written the introduction and described the "atmosphere."

Ayotte said it would have been impossible for anyone to record all that Mr. Chaloult said without a knowledge of shorthand, as he spoke rapidly and "with fire," for more than an hour.

6 Escape Jail, 5 Walk Back In

SHELBURNE, N.S. (CP)—Six prisoners broke out of the Shelburne jail Sunday night, but five of them voluntarily walked back in a few hours later. Police today were seeking the man who failed to return, Robert Sabean, a soldier from Port Lorne, Annapolis County, N.S.

Sabean was waiting trial on a theft charge arising from a robbery of an army canteen recently. The other five, three sailors and two civilians, were being held for minor offences.

The group made their escape by bending iron bars in a window in the jail corridor to reach the jail yard and then climbing over a 12-foot fence with the aid of a rope. The break was discovered when Mrs. Roy Locke, the jailer's wife, saw the five returning to the prison by the same route in which they had escaped.

U.S. China Fliers Sink Jap Ship; Blast 25 Planes

CHUNGKING (AP)—The newly-established United States air force in China was reported today to have sunk a Japanese gunboat in the Yangtze River during the Americans' destructive opening attacks on Japanese airfields and bases in China. Unofficial press reports reaching Chungking said the American bombers destroyed more than 25 Japanese planes at Hankow and Canton airdromes alone.

The first communique to be issued by the United States 23rd pursuit squadron said Hankow was raided July 1, Nanchang July 2 and Canton July 4.

During the Hankow raid when more than 10 of the invaders' planes were reported destroyed on the ground, the Americans were said to have struck on across the Yangtze River at the naval airdrome of Wuchang, on the opposite bank from Hankow.

It was during this attack the Japanese gunboat was said to have been sunk at her moorings along the customs jetty.

The Americans circled the area for several minutes and flew away before 50 other planes, caught completely by surprise, could get into the air.

Press reports said the Americans concentrated on the White Cloud airdrome in their July 4 raid on Canton, blowing up 15 or 20 Japanese planes which were on the field.

NO MORE DAY RAIDS

In the air, the Japanese struck a new note of caution with night bombardment of Hengyang, Hunan communications centre, after two daylight raiding forces had been scattered by the American Volunteer Group in the wind-up of its career.

When the American fliers set their fighters down again, those of the Flying Tigers who elected to remain in China joined the new 23rd U.S. air force pursuit group.

One of the A.V.G. fighter's last actions was to escort the United States bombing squadron to Nanchang, Hankow and Canton.

ARMY RETAKES TOWN

On the ground, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's armies were reported to have struck back at the Japanese captors of Ithwang, in Kiangsi province, retaking the town after the enemy had held it only 24 hours.

Chinese dispatches said the counter-attack had weakened Japanese efforts to trap large Chinese forces in central Kiangsi, and said the invaders were still unable to bridge the last 25-mile gap between their columns driving along the strategic Kiangsi-Chiang railway.

On the eve of the sixth year since the "China incident" broke out July 7, 1937, Gen. Chiang's armies appeared to be stiffening against the invaders, encouraged by Prime Minister Churchill's promise Britain would give China "every material, moral and spiritual help" possible. (See messages Page 3.)

Dr. H. E. Tremayne Dies at Kelowna

Dr. H. E. Tremayne, who was medical officer at the William Head quarantine station here between 1928 and 1936, passed away at Kelowna Hospital July 3. The funeral was held at Kelowna today.

Dr. Tremayne, a native of Ontario, served in the South African War after graduating from college, and on returning to Canada made his way west and located in Prince Rupert, being one of the pioneers of the northern city. He was also at Metlakatka, B.C., during the early part of his career as a practicing physician, and at one time was identified with the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

Dr. Tremayne was engaged in army hospital work in Europe in the first Great War and after the armistice came to Victoria and was for several years associated with the work of the Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment here.

For about 10 years Dr. Tremayne was quarantine doctor at Prince Rupert and in April, 1928, he was transferred to the William Head quarantine station here, following the death of Dr. H. Cox. He held the post of assistant medical officer at William Head for five years and for three years was chief medical officer there.

He retired in 1936 and went to Vancouver to reside, later going to Kelowna.

With $238,578.797, in increase of $209,934.138, while customs-excise revenue totaled $153,327,621, against $136,338,453, a gain of $16,989,168.

CRANBROOK, B.C. (CP)—For 44 consecutive days prior to the end of June, there was not one single 24-hour period in the Cranbrook district without precipitation, including snow twice and hail a half dozen times.

Reserve Army
To Play Part

OTTAWA (CP)—The reserve army will not be found wanting if called on to defend Canada. Maj. Gen. Beverly W. V. Browne, director-general of the reserve army, said in a radio address Sunday.

"We are really going places and doing things," Gen. Browne said in a reference to the training and equipment of the home defence forces, and he added:

"If and when we are called upon to face the enemy forces on this continent, we will be fighting as the people of Russia have fought from houses and ditches to forest and mountain, battling the enemy every foot of the way with everything at our disposal."

"This is the sort of warfare which needs ingenuity as well as courage."

The reserve army had a vital role in this war—a way different from the "old-fashioned wars we used to read about in the history books."

War had brought new and greater responsibilities to Canada's second-string fighting force. A direct and large-scale attack on the Dominion was no longer a remote possibility. The reserve army traditionally lacked equipment, but modern fighting equipment had been promised.

"I am glad to be able to report, as a result of a recent tour of reserve army camps, that this flow of equipment has begun in considerable volume," he said. "I have seen reserve troops training with mortars, Bren guns, with ample mechanical transport available—weapons beyond the fondest dreams of the old militia days."

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Delegates attending the Ontario convention of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada passed a resolution urging the allowance for dependent mothers of men on active service be raised to the equivalent of that received by wives.

They also passed resolutions asking for a cost-of-living bonus for pensions of the first Great War and reduction of farm loan interest to 3 per cent for veterans of the first Great War.

Messages From Britain, U.S.

More Allied Support
Pledged to China

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt today cabled Gen. Chiang Kai-shek and the people of China felicitations on the fifth anniversary of Japan's despicable attack on them and declared confidently the United Nations would fight on to victory.

It was July 7, 1937, the Japanese sent their troops against Chinese at the Marco Polo bridge, launching the war.

CHURCHILL'S PROMISES

CHUNGKING (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill Sunday told the Chinese people as they neared the end of five years of war that Britain is determined to give them "every material, moral and spiritual help in our power."

"For five years you have, in spite of suffering and disappointment, maintained a united front against aggression," the British leader said in his message, arranged to be broadcast to the Chinese people on their war anniversary Tuesday.

"Today we are fighting side by side against our common enemies and with us today we have the tremendous resources of the United States. Each of us has his part to play. The war in Europe and the Middle East is as much a part of the defence of China, as the war in the Far East is part of the defence of Britain."

NEW PROPOSAL

FROM GANDHI

BOMBAY (CP)—Declaring that "India is as much interested as her Allies in warding off attack," Mohandas K. Gandhi proposed today that India be made free and that United Nations troops be allowed to remain to defend the country against the Japanese.

The influential nationalist wrote in his weekly newspaper Harijan:

"I argue that Allied troops, if they remain, will do so not to exercise authority over the people or at India's expense, but will remain under a treaty with the government of a free India at the United Nations' expense for the sole purpose of repelling Japanese attacks and helping China."

He proposed that India be allowed to start a new national life with nonviolence as its "predominant sanction." He said this nonviolence would "express itself in her ambassadors going to the Axis countries not to be for peace but to show them the futility of war."

Mysterious Blast

Destroys Hotel

MANITOU, Man. (CP)—Three members of the staff of the Ellis Hotel are in hospital today suffering from injuries and shock following a Sunday morning explosion of unknown origin which destroyed the hotel.

Miss Anne Georges of Manitou suffered a hip injury and severe burns; Miss Terry Spinel of Altamont, Man., received a serious head injury and scalds, and Miss Ruth Hodgson of Manitou, was badly burned. The three were removed to the hospital at Morden, Man., where their condition is reported fair.

The explosion shattered windows and doors, and blew out the entire south part of the building in which the kitchen and employees' quarters were housed. None of the guests was hurt, and a number escaped by ropes suspended from the windows.

Manitou is about 100 miles southwest of Winnipeg.

Flier's Daughter
Dies After Relapse

LONDON (CP)—Three-year-old June Challis, whose illness of diphtheria brought her airman father flying across the ocean from a Canadian training airfield, died Sunday in Plaitow isolation hospital after suffering a relapse.

Challis, undergoing training with an R.A.F. unit at a Canadian ground school, received a compassionate posting to Britain after being informed by cable of June's illness early last month.

Authorities arranged for his transfer across the Atlantic in a Liberator bomber. He was rushed to the ferry command airport and put aboard the plane with a 150-pound kit, despite the regulation limiting baggage to 40 pounds.

He carried his own equipment and dozens of oranges for June. He landed at a British airport and was placed in another plane to be flown to London.

June, overjoyed at seeing her father, shower rapid improvement for a time, then suffered a relapse. Her condition became critical at the week-end and she died a few minutes before her father, responding to an emergency call, reached her bedside.

New Regulations

Civil Industries Await
War Needs for Essentials

OTTAWA (CP)—Hundreds of Canadian manufacturers will be unable to get enough raw materials from the United States to keep their plants running because of the critical supply situation, Munitions Minister Howe warns.

Manufacturers making civilian articles will be given only what is left over after war industries have been provided with the raw materials, processed parts, machinery and repair parts they need, he said in a prepared statement, adding:

"In many instances this means they will get nothing. Only those civilian industries which are essential to the economy of a nation at war will be given any preference."

Allocation of supplies will be handled under a new priorities system established at Washington—the Production Requirements Plan, which will set definite quotas for all manufacturers who use more than $5,000 worth of metals in a quarter of the calendar year.

TO SPEED EFFORT

The Canadian war effort will be speeded up by the new system, Mr. Howe said.

Under the system, every manufacturer who uses $5,000 worth of metals in three months must turn in a report giving his inventory, what he uses the materials for and how much he needs for the next quarter year.

"The zero hour is coming when many manufacturers will be unable to obtain sufficient steel, non-ferrous metals and other materials," the minister's statement said. "Certainly those who failed to make their application will be out of luck."

Limit Types of Electric Cords

OTTAWA (CP)—Discontinuation of 21 lines of flexible electric cord for use on toasters, irons, floor lamps and other devices was ordered today by A. L. Brown, administrator of electrical equipment and supplies for the War-time Prices and Trade Board.

The order, in line with the board's program of simplification and standardization, leaves nine lines available for such purposes.

All cords for domestic purposes using outside coatings of rubber are eliminated, and braided cotton coverings will be used instead. Silk-covered cords are also eliminated, the board announced.

The saving of rubber will be substantial, the board said. In one line alone—rubber-jacketed cord used for portable lamps—about 27,000 pounds of best-grade plantation rubber now can be diverted to war purposes. Such a quantity is sufficient to provide rubber tracks, rubber insulated wire and shock padding for 18 army tanks.

Our Debt To China

TWO EVENTS OF THE PRESENT CENTURY have earned special places in the historian's record of the interregnum separating the first and second World Wars—the Manchurian "affair" in 1931 and the "skirmish" at Marco Polo Bridge near Peking five years ago tomorrow. Each is definitely related to the other. The first was an ambitious imperialistic sortie with political and territorial designs. Its success for the aggressor dealt a body-blow to the authority of the League of Nations; its early sequel was Mussolini's attack on Ethiopia and Hitler's march into the demilitarized Rhineland. Bolstered by these actions of Europe's two victors, the "incident" about to enter its sixth year obviously appeared to the men of Tokyo a simple excursion requiring little expenditure in either men, material, treasure, or time. How wrong they proved to be; how recalcitrant to their duty, blind to their own interest, callous to the humanities, were those nations which contented themselves with the role of spectators of China's Calvary until the eleventh hour had struck!

It is not too late to make amends, to lift China from her cross, to look to her wounds. But fine phrases will be cold comfort to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek this day. Millions of his compatriots have been killed and maimed, tens of millions are homeless, thousands of communities lie in ruins. Nor will he complain as he notes the inexorable advance of the enemy in many directions. His men will fight on in the face of great odds. Other millions wait and wait and wait for the equipment which is so tardy in arriving. It is succor their gallant leader needs and must have if five years of incalculable sacrifice is not to be mocked. Not for us to know how, when, or in what volume that assistance can be delivered where conditions emphasize the urgency most. But, engrossed as they are in the Homeric struggle in Egypt and Russia, in the battle of the Atlantic and Pacific, the peoples of the United Nations must find a way to pay the debt of honor they owe to valiant China. The hour is late; we have much for which to atone.

Willkie Will Wait

ONE QUESTION FOR WHICH WASHINGTON observers are trying to find an answer is who will be the Republican party's candidate for the governorship of New York now that Mr. Wendell L. Willkie has definitely announced he has no intention of becoming one. Advice from the national capital on Saturday indicate that it will be a fight between old-line Republicans of the Hoover and Landon stripe and those who believe in the advanced leadership with which the unsuccessful presidential entrant in 1940 has so enthusiastically identified himself. It is suggested that if the former "racket buster" Thomas Dewey is chosen, it will represent a victory for the stand-patters—not only for the immediate contest but also for that of the presidential campaign in 1944. But in any event, the "draft Willkie" movement, which gained momentum under the leadership of Republican realists, reveals a deep schism within the party, since it was aimed at those reactionary elements which are working diligently for Dewey.

At Westport, Conn., last week, incidentally, Mr. Willkie supported the nomination of Mr. Raymond E. Baldwin as the candidate for the governorship of Connecticut; he did so because he represented the type of leadership "so urgently needed in the Republican ranks," and because during and after the 1940 presidential campaign Mr. Baldwin had supported him—"despite opposition from many party leaders"—in his advocacy of President Roosevelt's foreign policy, the overage destroyer deal with Great Britain, the Selective Service Act, and the repeal of the Neutrality Act. "I care not so much for what men say but when they say it, because that determines their courage, their imagination and their leadership," reiterated Mr. Willkie. And throughout his speech he repeatedly emphasized the contention that the Republican leadership must be composed of men who long ago, not just after Pearl Harbor, had the foresight to see that the party could not remain as an important force in the country unless it dropped isolationism and adopted a liberal and international point of view.

It was the foregoing conviction which Mr. Willkie elaborated in a recent exclusive interview with this newspaper. But in driving his point home at the Westport meeting he added that "if you and other Republicans throughout the country will help me to do that, other persons can have every office in the United States so far as I am concerned." However, refusing to be "drafted" in a bid for the governorship of New York—traditionally the stepping stone to the country's greatest gift—is one thing; spurning a similarly persuasive gesture on the part of his legion of admirers within the progressive ranks of the Republican party structure in the summer of 1944 would be something entirely different. And it matters greatly to Canada and the world who is the next President of the United States.

Still Holding Rommel

CAIRO COMMUNIQUE DURING THE last few days have been noteworthy for their general restraint. This is as it should be. Manufacturing optimism is a dangerous business. The public wants facts—be they pleasant or disagreeable. Not that there is any harm in feeling a little easier in our minds because even the Germans admit Field Marshal Erwin Rommel is no longer advancing on Alexandria and the Nile Valley. His Afrika Corps is taking a turn on the defensive. Fresh British reinforcements, more and better guns, and the magnificent work of the Royal Air Force are causing the Nazi commander to take stock of his position. But he still has a strong organization behind him; additional strength may be reaching him in preparation for another attempt to break through the comparatively narrow defensive line which bars the way from the sea to the depression in the south.

One fact would seem to stand out in relief as the defenders continue to share the initiative: Rommel either must try to advance or he will soon be compelled to retire to more favorable positions to the westward. The New York Times, incidentally, has private, but, of course, unofficial advice that the Marshal has met Italian and higher German officers to decide on his next move—whether to advance eastward at any cost, to entrench in an effort to hold present positions pending organization of a new offensive force, or to withdraw to shorten communication lines while awaiting reinforcements and increased aerial strength. If such a meeting did take place, and it would not be surprising, we may have to wait a day or two to discover which of the three alternatives was adopted.

One of the most encouraging pieces of news to come from Cairo is that which repeatedly assures us of the brilliant work being done day and night by the Royal Air Force—that the continued presence of our bombers and fighters overhead has been a means of supreme encouragement to our hard-pressed men on the ground and in the tanks and other armored vehicles. So often in this war the cry has gone up that if only the infantryman had had adequate support from the air he could have converted certain defeat into certain victory. However, all we want from Cairo in the meantime is truth; victory, if it comes, will be all the sweeter if it has not been press-agented beforehand.

Sheer Vandalism

YOUNGSTERS WHO HAD BEEN DISPORTING themselves in the waters of Second Beach swimming pool in Vancouver in the recent hot days were denied their fun on Saturday because vandals had dumped broken beer bottles and garbage into it. Not until it had been drained and the late afternoon tide had filled it up could it be used again.

It is difficult to understand the peculiar mentality which seems to find enjoyment in such vandalism as that reported from Second Beach. When heartlessness and ignorance combine to make mischief one experiences a revulsion of feeling so foreign to a people who know and understand the allure of the out-of-doors. The publicity given to the incident by the Vancouver papers may, perhaps, shame the guilty ones.

Remember Doolittle?

HIROHITO'S PROPAGANDISTS ARE telling the world that Great Britain and the United States were guilty of a "tragic error" when they promised a second front in Europe against Hitler. No doubt the United Nations will appreciate Tokyo's thoughtfulness, and its ever-present sensitivity where Anglo-American welfare is concerned, but both London and Washington will assure the "Son of Heaven" that even such a "tragic error" was not committed without a thorough canvass of all the possibilities. Of course, we might interject the reminder that we could rely more upon Japanese omniscience if we did not remember how a certain American air corps commander by the name of Doolittle raided Tokyo and interrupted a broadcast assuring all Nipponese that Americans never could bomb them. But, it did happen in Tokyo. It will happen in Europe.

What was it Goering promised the German people, when only unarmed Britain seemed to stand between Hitler and world domination? Wasn't it that he would not permit one bomb to be dropped on German territory. We cannot help recalling it as we hear of each new large-scale raid—a daily occurrence of late.

CHEERFULLY WE RESPOND

From Stittwa Journal

Listing of the Canadian people for their sugar rations, and the issuing of cards, is an example of a huge job being done simply and expeditiously at very small cost to the treasury except for printing—by utilization of the tremendous body of voluntary workers ready on call to meet any demand upon their time.

Application cards were distributed by mail. Then on a single evening they were collected, through the organization of Air Raid wardens, and turned in to central depots—in Ottawa 3,000 wardens did the work. The next morning hundreds of women, also volunteers, undertook the task of sorting and classifying the applications, of making out and mailing the ration books.

As has been said many times, the people need only to be told what to do, and if it is something essential to the war effort they will respond cheerfully, work tirelessly and efficiently. That has been proved once before. Sometimes one wonders whether enough use is being made of this great pool of man-power and woman-power which is at the service of the government.

Bruce Hutchison

UNHAPPY STATESMEN

THE RECENT SPEECH of Mr. Churchill in Parliament illustrates the supremely difficult job of the democratic leader in wartime. He has to fight on two fronts, against the enemy abroad and the enemy at home. But his greatest difficulty is that he must fight the enemy at home with one hand tied behind his back. He is unable to defend himself by giving the facts, for to give them at home would be to help the enemy abroad.

Thus leaders like Churchill and Roosevelt are always at a disadvantage. They often know the answer to the critics but dare not use it. They cannot say that a battle was lost because of a certain lack of equipment, or shipping or manpower, for then the enemy would know just what he wants to know. Where the critics of a democratic statesman have all the facts of defeat and disaster to hurl at him, the statesman cannot hurl back any facts, but must trust to generalities, and finally to the public confidence in his general character and ability.

The dictator is at enormous advantage here. He does not have to defend himself because there are no critics. Moreover, he does not give his people the disagreeable facts and they are seldom aware of defeats. He can concentrate all his attention to the job of fighting abroad while a great part of the democratic statesman's time is inevitably occupied with politics, the art of dealing with free men.

THE OPPOSITION

THIS A TERRIBLE responsibility devolves upon oppositionists in wartime. If they fail to criticize a government it slips into sloppy habits; and were it not for opposition to the King government—opposition weak, and uninspired as it has been—one hesitates to think what would have happened to the country's war effort. But, when criticism gets to the point of undermining confidence in a government to which there is no better alternative, it can become disastrous.

When an opposition decides to go to the length of dislodging a government it should be able to offer the better alternative and none of Mr. Churchill's critics have been able to do so. In the United States there is such an obvious lack of an alternative to Mr. Roosevelt that the Republican Party has become nothing but a wailing wall and its candidates in the autumn Congressional elections can only try to argue that they did less to obstruct the President's general program than the other fellow. In Canada there is such an obvious lack of an alternative to Mr. King that he is able to skate over thin ice which would never have supported him under normal conditions, with a competent opposition to take his place.

DEEP THOUGHT

THIS MAY WELL make one pause to wonder whether our two-party system is in permanent decay or temporary sickness. With brief intermissions, the Conservative Party of Britain has governed that country since the last war. With a brief intermission—disastrous as it was brief—the Liberal Party has been governing Canada since the last war. Mr. Roosevelt has broken all precedents and now is in the middle of his third term and, no doubt, will have a fourth if the war is still going on at the time of the next election. Nowhere are strong parties of opposition developing, nowhere alternatives to existing parties.

The prophets who make a specialty of explaining the decay of our capitalist era and the birth of a new and revolutionary world will see in this fact the certain decline of the existing system. They will say that this is no accident, but an inevitable concomitant of the old system's demise. They will see the emergence of the monolithic state which already exists in most of the world.

This may be true. Personally I do not feel competent to explain it nor willing to believe the explanation of those who, though wrong about everything in the past, are just as confident as ever about their prophecies of the future. It may be that we are witnessing not a fundamental change but only a temporary aberration.

In Canada it is pretty obvious that the Conservative Party perished through the disaster of leadership under Mr. Bennett and Mr. Meighen, whom the people simply refused to entertain any longer; and it is obvious that, having lost its power, the Conservative Party can never be revived so long as it has no policy distinct from the Liberal Party. The function of opposition thus must go to another party, either the C.C.F. or some similar group of the Left. But this does not prove the death of the two-party system. It may only prove that the opposition party, which will yet emerge, will be stronger than the previous opposition because it represents an idea. And this may also occur in Britain when the Left seeks power after the war.

But in the meantime the difficulty of the democratic statesman remains and I am optimistically bewildered by, and lost in admiration for the most ignorant men who dare to estimate and condemn the work of Churchill, Roosevelt and King as if it were a simple matter like a baseball game, in which all could participate as spectators with equal wisdom and noise. Democracy reaches its final triumph when some fellow in Victoria, B.C., proves that Churchill in London, Roosevelt in Washington and King in Ottawa are making a mess of their jobs.

To Win We Need Sky Trucks

William M. Sheehan in July Harpers.

WE CANNOT WIN this war with bombers alone. Although the unmistakable trend in modern warfare places more and more emphasis upon fighting above rather than on the surface of the earth, it is nevertheless a fact that bombers by themselves are not going to win this war.

What is going to win this war, in so far as air power is concerned, is a thoroughly modern, well-balanced air force. That means that, in addition to bombers and fighters, we need all the parachute-troop transports, sky ambulances, aerial tankers and freighters, aerial repair shops, camp kitchens, and other specialized service aircraft that ingenious tacticians can find a use for. Our bomber program is well under way and our overwhelming need now is for planes in the non-combatant, heavy-load category.

Modern warfare attaches great importance to the factors of mobility and surprise. These in turn call for an abundance of the fastest type of supply vehicle. We should not think of sending into battle a mechanized ground force that did not include thousands of motorized supply vehicles. Even a landlubber knows that the best battleships and cruisers are useless without plenty of transports that can accompany them in the same medium, the ocean. Yet as far as the average reflective American citizen can see, we are trying to create the world's finest air force without building at the same time enough of the only kind of supply vehicle that can keep up with it. We are supplying our advanced air bases by means of 11-knot cargo ships, which is as incongruous and shortsighted as it would be to try to maintain a modern mechanized column with ox carts and mules.

THE FALL OF CRETE was due to more than persistence and good luck. A tremendous amount of preparation and planning went into it. The British had been entrenching themselves on that island for months. They had over 40,000 troops, controlled the only three airports, and were protected from the sea approach by strong units of the British Navy. Strategists of the old school insisted that occupation of so tightly defended a position was impossible. But behind the skillfully co-ordinated attack of high-level and dive-bombers, machine gun strafing fighter planes, and Junkers sky trucks filled with parachute and air-landing troops, lay years of intense practice and study. Major Thompson in his "Modern Battle" quotes a British officer who witnessed the invasion as saying that, once after another of the first Ju-52's to attempt a landing were "smashed to pieces," but the Nazis kept coming until the 13th attempt succeeded, and then they went on landing, one plane regularly every three minutes, losing one, then getting another down, then losing another.

The fact that General of Aviation Loehr could call upon the thousands of Junkers sky trucks for his "Task Force Crete," was the result of sagacious planning which as long ago as 1935 saw the importance of large numbers of this type of airplane. That they could be used so effectively in the face of strong opposition testifies to a tremendous amount of practice and experimentation. We have a long way to go to match this Nazi achievement. Yet we must do better, for the Germans will not remain idle.

We must accept the perfectly obvious fact that the airplane used as a load carrier on a large scale, is a most potent and precise weapon; we must at once begin building a large fleet of the type of aircraft suited to carrying armies and their equipment; and we must also plan intensively for its most effective use.

FROM WHITE ELEPHANT TO ASSET

From Financial Times

"THE CASE of British Columbia's Pacific Great Eastern Railway is not entirely an exception to the rule that yesterday's transportation white elephants are today's valued assets.

The P.G.E. is not as busy as the other railways of Canada. Probably it and the Manitoba line to Hudson Bay are the least used lines of their length in Canada. But if the P.G.E. were completed to Prince George, it would be an extremely active road today.

For want of a link between Quesnel and Prince George, rail traffic to the northern port of Prince Rupert is having to cover a needlessly long distance. The demands on the shipping facilities of the Pacific coast of Canada have been such as to make the rail movement an important adjunct to service in what was once entirely sea-borne transportation.

By completing the P.G.E. Railway and running a road northward to join up with the main Alaska Highway, British Columbia could participate far more fully in the job of serving the immense transportation task which the Alaska Highway creates.

7,000 AIR CADETS

From Hansard Report.

Hon. C. G. Power, Minister of National Defence for Air: May I say that the air cadets are now to all intents and purposes part and parcel of the Royal Canadian Air Force. We have retained our connection with the Air Cadet League so that the league might function as a propaganda organization, and with the help of public spirited citizens, arouse interest in the air cadets. To all intents and purposes we now supervise the work of the air cadet corps, because we consider it one of the most important fields for obtaining recruits in the future, particularly air crew recruits.

Mr. Gray: Does the department finance it?

Mr. Power: Yes—perhaps not entirely, but to a very considerable extent.

Mr. Hanson: And the training?

Mr. Power: We are giving them training, too. As a matter of fact that has caused another headache. We are taking them to some of our schools and the question naturally arises whether we will give the boys rides in airplanes. Well, if we have 7,000 cadets, as I expect we will have this summer, it would take a good many flying hours to take them up one by one. I suggested to some of our pilots that we might take five or six at a time in big machines. As a matter of fact we would have difficulty obtaining permission from parents, and one thing and another; and I believe to take them up in airplanes would be too great a risk for us to take.

WAR—25 YEARS AGO TODAY

By the Canadian Press
July 6, 1917—Military Service Act given second reading in the Canadian House of Commons by vote of 118 to 55. German air men attacked French fortifications at Nancy. British destroyer torpedoed in the North Sea.

No Biological Bases For 'Race' Claims

Racial claims made for propaganda purposes lack any semblance of biological or anthropological basis, Dr. John R. Swanton, an anthropologist of the Bureau of American Ethnology, indicates in a new publication of the Smithsonian Institution.

Even the earliest nations, like Egypt and Babylon, show no uniformity in racial types, says Dr. Swanton. There were at least two distinct physical types common in ancient Egypt in addition to the Mediterranean type commonly thought of as representing the Egyptian "race." As for modern Germany, few of the larger nations of history have less title to a mystical national unity, despite the vehemence of claims made by Nazi racists.

On the other side of the picture, Dr. Swanton finds racially homogeneous groups of people who never achieved common nationality or political organization. It was so to a considerable extent in ancient Greece; even more so among some tribes of recent Indians on this continent. New England and New York Indians were very much alike physically, yet they had widely divergent racial organizations and even radically different languages.

"In short," says Dr. Swanton, "there is no one universally valid principle identifying a body of people as a tribe, and tribes or tribal groups varied so enormously as to dispose effectually of the idea that there was an immutability about them, either in their origin or later development. Sanctions of supernatural character were claimed in the more developed tribes such as the Natchez, Aztecs and Incas, but these were plainly afterthoughts intended to stabilize a condition brought about by less occult means."

HIGHLANDER CROLL

From Montreal Gazette

Jean Francois Pouliot, Liberal member for Temiscouata, in criticizing the assignment of English-speaking officers to some French-Canadian units, asked the House what the reaction would be if a Jewish officer were appointed to command a Highland regiment in Toronto. Judging from recriminating facts in the first World War, the reaction would hardly be what the Pouliot question implies. Many Jews joined the ranks of Montreal Highland battalions, wore the kilts and rendered service at the front. They were accepted as Canadians and were regarded as such by other soldiers in the killed ranks, including some French-Canadians. No doubt there were Jewish Canadians in the Toronto Highland regiments, as there were in the Windsor Scottish units.

To confound Mr. Pouliot there is the case of David Croll, former mayor of Windsor and one-time minister in the Hepburn government, a Jew, a native of Moscow. He started working in Windsor as a boy of 12, rose to be first magistrate of that city, enlisted when war broke out as a private in the Essex Scottish, C.A.S.F., and served in England. Private Croll of Windsor, Ont. was invited to Windsor, England, where he was welcomed by the municipality and received by the King and Queen. Later he earned a commission. Capt. Croll is a patriotic Canadian and the donning of the kilts, in Toronto or anywhere else, makes him a Highlander. And if any national is qualified to be a private in a Highland unit, he is entitled to bid for a commission. The kilts of Canada are Canadians who welcome any patriot into their midst.

THAT POGUE CARBURETOR

From Toronto Star

Newspapers and letter-writers keep referring to the Pogue carburetor as though it were a gas-saving invention which the government has overlooked. But Col. Ralston has made the facts quite clear. The government put Mr. Pogue on an allowance of $10 a day for six weeks to demonstrate his device. It was found it gave increased mileage, but at a sacrifice of power or speed. "With load-carrying vehicles, it proved quite impracticable because they have to have the full pull all the time, and it was impossible to get his carburetor attachment to work under those circumstances," said Col. Ralston. "Mr. Pogue has never been able to give the branch a carburetor which works without being constantly adjusted. I mean that literally, you have to get out from time to time on the road and adjust the carburetor, which, of course, makes it absolutely impracticable."

The government has given Mr. Pogue special gasoline privileges in order that he may experiment with a view to perfecting his invention.

AIR POWER AND THE ARMY

From Maclean's Magazine
Reasons for the defeat of the French army as given by French military commanders at the Riom trial:

General Blanchard, First Army Commander: "The greatest weakness of the army in Flanders was the inferiority of the air force."

General Francois, commander in the Longwy area: "It was in the considerable insufficiency of our aviation that we must see the real cause of our reverses."

General Hering, member of the Superior War Council: "The failure to protect the French army from the air was the principal cause of their reverses."

General Requin: "The air force was nonexistent as a consequence of the enemy's immense superiority (in the air)."

General Lenclos, divisional commander on the Somme: "The lack of aircraft was the main cause of the moral depression of the army."

General "Mittelschuler," Commander of the Army of the Alps: "The army suffered abominably from an absence of liaison with the air force."

M. Guy La Chambre: "Even if France had had more planes they would not have been used as a consequence of the conceptions of the High Command."
Old stuff? Sure it's old stuff. France fell in 1940.

On April 22, 1942, Hon. J. L. Ralston, Canada's Minister of National Defence, said in the House of Commons: "The formation of an actual parachute unit is not being gone ahead with at the present moment."

"Can it still be true that our army is not to be taught how to use the air because of 'the conceptions of the High Command'?"

Will we never learn?
USELESS LUNCHEONS
Janus in London Spectator
Having commented some months ago on the amount of time expended collectively by persons who assemble in large numbers to listen to miscellaneous oratory at public luncheons, I am glad to see that the government is officially deprecating the practice. If 600 people devote 2 hours—a moderate estimate—to the process of getting there, coping with a more substantial and more expensive meal than they would be likely to have otherwise, and getting back to their office again, the aggregate loss in output each time is considerable. When many of those present are high government officials, attending out of respect to some distinguished guest, the thing is really serious. There is no time for such diversions in these days.

Messroom Chatter Of Canada's Airmen

By ALLAN NICKLESON
WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP)—The R.C.A.F. boys call P.O. J. Whitman of Calgary the "Factory King." During a sweep over German-occupied territory with his Spitfire-flying team mates he attacked a factory with his machine guns and the next day went back at it again.

"There were a few more windows that needed breaking," he told the intelligence officer on his return.

There hasn't been much fun over Northern France flying at 25,000 feet looking for Germans who just aren't there, so the Canadian fighter pilots have been ducking down to low height to strike one point after another. It's called "beating up" an objective in air force lingo and they've tackled such things as water towers, canal barges, power stations, factories and railway trains.

Sgt. M. Johnson, 22-year-old pilot from Selkirk, Man., told of blasting away with machine guns and cannon at several canal barges just as an elderly peasant started across a bridge with a horse and cart. "He was out of the line of fire but whipped up his horse when he heard the firing. Added Johnson: "Far as I know the nag is still galloping."

On another such expedition a Canadian squadron attacked a railway train and watched the locomotive crew "bail out" of the engine as it sped along.

Just 15 seconds after Flt. Lt. Eugene Neal, D.F.C., of Quebec, and Flt. Sgt. Stan (Slim) Coburn of Calgary spotted a low-flying German aircraft over Northern France, the enemy craft hit the ground and blew up. The Canadians lost no time with their machine guns and cannon once they saw the enemy.

Principal Protestant Chaplain of the R.C.A.F. Wing Cmdr. John McNab of Toronto is on a three-month tour during which he will visit all Canadian squadrons as well as Canadians in R.A.F. units. He expects the number of Protestant padres with the R.C.A.F. overseas to be increased from its present 19 to 30 before long.

The manner in which Axis convoys are protected off the Netherlands coast reminds P.O. G. W. Laforme of Revelstoke, B.C., of the way wagon trains used to swing into a protective ring against attack in the early days of the west. Laforme flies with a Canadian coastal command squadron and says you'll find a ring of E-boats on the outside of a German convoy, then flak ships and in the middle the merchant vessels. Flying in the same outfit as Laforme are P.O.'s Jack F. Smith, Wolfville, N.S.; G. W. Green, Outremont, Que.; G. W. Fieger of Gresham, N.B.; Robert Allen of Paris, Ont., and Flt. Sgts. Arnold Blakey of Ottawa, Sidney Black of Toronto, and Sgts. A. W. Henry, Vancouver, and L. G. Woods, Toronto.

Wm. S. Johnson Dead

MONTREAL (CP)—William Steele Johnson, 73, former mining engineer and one-time director of Johnson's Company at Thetford Mines, Que., died suddenly Sunday at his home in suburban Lachine.

Beginning his career as consulting mining engineer, he went to British Columbia, where he practiced a few years before he came to Lachine.

Alan Stewart Home

Leaves War Zones Jump Ahead of Japs

"It keeps you worried when you're just two jumps ahead of the Japs, but I've been awfully thankful for those two jumps," said Alan Stewart, engineer superintendent for Butterfield & Swire, leading China coast shipowners, formerly of the Victoria Times circulation department and one-time British Columbia diving champion, home now from his original headquarters at Hongkong.

Mr. Stewart leaves this week to join Lloyds in Vancouver as ship and engineer surveyor. He came out of the Orient the long way, via Sumatra, Calcutta, Bombay and across the Atlantic and Canada.

As tension grew in the Orient, his company on Dec. 1 told staff members to stand by with their ships ready to sail from Hongkong. They stood by most of the week and sailed Dec. 6, originally for Singapore. Eighteen hours later came Pearl Harbor. His ship was ordered to the closest port of refuge. She headed for Sumatra.

On the way to Palembang he saw the British blowing up the oilfields in Miri, North Borneo. From Palembang they embarked on another ship for Ceylon just before hostilities started in Sumatra. At Calcutta he and his men went to work repairing the company's vessels. They had lost 10 through capture by Japanese and one through sinking from the China Navigation Co. fleet of 50. For three months they stayed in the Indian port before receiving further orders. When those orders came they were instructed to proceed to Bombay.

PASSED BATTLE AREA

En route they passed through the area about which the naval battle off Ceylon raged. The day before they put to sea one ship on that route had received a Jap bomb in her hold and it had been a matter of some deliberation before they actually sailed.

From Bombay Mr. Stewart started the long journey home, completing in two and a half months a trip which would have taken a month in peacetime.

Apart from a lack of aircraft, Hongkong appeared prepared for attack when he left, although the manpower was not sufficient, he said. He was not there for the opening assault, but expressed the opinion the population would have accepted it originally as one of the innumerable "scars" of the preceding month.

"I really didn't see anything. I was moved out before hostilities in each case. But I can't say the journeys were free from worry," he told friends here.

Mr. Stewart feels Hongkong is bound to be restored to its place of shipping prominence after the Allies win. Its geographic location ensures that, in his opinion.

After his deep-sea wanderings, he's glad to be home. The Pacific coast of B.C. may be in the front line, he says, but it feels a lot safer to him than points from which he has come.

CHURCH SERVICES CLOSE ARMY WEEK

Church parades, many of them attended by civilians, were held at army camps and establishments Sunday, appropriate services were held in other city churches and a concert on the lawn of the Parliament Buildings marked the close of Army Week Sunday.

At the Officers' Training Centre at Gordon Head the service was held at 9:45 and throughout the day cadets were hosts to hundreds of visitors, a band concert and march past being performed.

Hundreds more gathered around the Parliament Buildings for the concert and community singing staged by members of the Arion Club, with Ald. W. H. Davies in charge of arrangements.

Saturday night the Retreat ceremony, performed by the band of the Work Point Garrison and a color party from the 3rd S.S.R., entertained a large crowd while others earlier in the day witnessed a parade and concert by the Gordon Head O.T.C. band on View Street, between Broad and Douglas.

19 Violent Deaths

TORONTO (CP)—Nineteen persons met violent deaths in eastern Canada during the week-end in one of the heaviest fatality tolls of the year.

Drownings took six lives and five members of the R.C.A.F. died in plane crashes. Two persons were electrocuted, three died in highway accidents, one man suffered fatal injuries in a fall, a man was killed by a train and a small boy died of burns after a gasoline tank exploded.

Sgdn. Ldr. George Patterson (Pat) Christie, D.F.C., Wing Cmdr. Brian Gethyn Carr-Harris and L.A.C. Clement Stuart Llewellyn were killed Sunday when a Hudson bomber from the ferry command crashed into Lake St. Louis near Montreal.

Two unidentified members of the R.C.A.F. were killed Saturday when their plane crashed into the Blanche River near Kruger-dorg, eight miles north of Englehart, Ont.

One hundred thousand breeders now maintain a stock of more than 1,000,000 rabbits in Denmark, according to the press of that country.

Catholic Women To Interview M.P.

Mrs. C. L. Rivers, the president, with Mrs. Blair Reid and Miss Madeleine Clay, have been appointed a committee by the Diocesan Council of the Catholic Women's League to interview Mr. R. W. Mayhew, M.P., to enlist his support in bringing certain religious intolerances to the attention of Premier Mackenzie King and Hon. L. S. St. Laurent, Minister of Justice.

The committee was appointed at the recent meeting of the council, the last before the holidays. Mrs. Rivers welcomed Rev. Father G. Penfold, now resident chaplain at Bishop's House, and the newly-appointed members to the council, Miss Nelda Hilditch, president of the Junior C.W.L.; Miss Winifred Leavitt, and Miss Mary Grant, Diocesan convener of Girl Guides. The secretary, Miss Mary Morry, reported correspondence included congratulations from the C.W.L. to Rev. Father Leonard upon his ordination to the priesthood. A letter from Mrs. McDonnell of Lady's Mount school, for continued contributions of books to Father Bradley's library, where they are greatly appreciated.

Mrs. Rivers spoke of having attended the mass meeting of women in favor of temperance on July 7 at the Chamber of Commerce, and the diocesan council passed a resolution urging voluntary abstinence for the duration. The president then read resolutions to be submitted from various subdivisions of the C.W.L. to the National Council and conveners at the meeting on July 10 at Montreal.

Plans were made for a comprehensive survey of health insurance under Dr. Hegerty. Publicity, education and scholarships were dealt with in various reports. Miss Clay spoke of her report to be read in Montreal by Mrs. T. H. Hay, national scholarship convener, and was congratulated on her articles in the official league organ.

The treasurer, Mrs. E. O'Neill, revealed a satisfactory financial condition. The Girl Guides, under supervision of Miss Mary Grant, are continuing their work in first aid and signaling. Before the meeting adjourned, Rev. Father Penfold spoke of the great need of trust in God. True Christian charity alone in the souls of men could bring the Utopia of universal peace, he said.

Catholic Cathedral Bazaar Success

A big crowd attended the garden party of St. Andrew's Cathedral, held Saturday afternoon and evening, in the Bishop's House, View Street. Mrs. A. Cownden was the general convener, and the gaily-decorated stalls were convened by the various societies of the cathedral as follows:

Home cooking, the Altar Society, with Mrs. W. Regan, Mrs. F. T. Porter, Mrs. R. Dickinson and Miss Frances Porter in charge; fancywork, the Senior C.W.L., under Mrs. A. G. Morry, Mrs. S. Pay Allowances To Stenographers

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has moved to overcome a serious shortage of stenographers and typists in Ottawa by providing for payment of special allowances, setting up training facilities for persons already employed and permitting payment of transportation expenses over $70 for stenographers and typists assigned from outside points.

The action was taken on recommendation of Finance Minister Lasey who said the shortage of stenographers and typists was more than 300 and would "rapidly grow worse."

However, it was considered inadvisable to change basic rates of pay because of the terms of the Wartime Wages and Cost-of-Living Bonus Order-in-Council.

Now, stenographers proficient in shorthand and typing may be granted special allowances of $10 or $15 a month, depending on their capabilities, and competent typists may be allowed $5 a month.

Basic pay of grade 1 stenographers now is $20 a month plus cost of living bonus. The new allowances apply only to grade 1 employees since they are not permitted to increase the sum of basic pay and allowance to more than $75 a month.

The allowances are restricted to employees who live in the Ottawa district.

Two Girls Raised $56.75 for Red Cross

As a result of their initiative, two young Uplands girls, Patricia Greenhill and Peggy Woodhouse, have turned in the sums of $56.75 to the Red Cross. They are the daughters, respectively, of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Greenhill and Reeve and Mrs. W. L. Woodhouse, and their effort took the form of a garden party at the former's home, 3375 Upper Terrace Road, Saturday afternoon and evening.

Union Jacks were featured in the decoration of the stalls, with a large Red Cross over the lucky dip. Many neighbors helped the children with contributions to the various booths, which included needlework, fancywork, home cooking, flowers and soft drinks and ice cream.

One six-year-old boy, John Penn, besides acting as usher, brought along his "piggy bank" and donated the contents ($1) to the cause.

PORTWAY—COUTTS

In Sapperton Baptist Church the marriage took place June 30 of Violet Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Coutts, to Mr. William Robert Portway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. R. Portway of Arundel Drive, Victoria. Mr. O. Gillan and Mr. R. Birch officiated.

For her wedding the bride was wearing a white georgette frock, her French veil held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, carnations and sweet peas.

Miss Marian Shannon and Miss Isabel Coutts, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids, and Mr. George Roberts was best man. Ushers were Mr. Ralph Nichol and Mr. James Davis.

HIBBETT—CROWTHER

Two popular young people were the principals in the pretty wedding at St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, Saturday evening at 8 when Miss Doreen May Crowther, only daughter of Mrs. Wm. G. Carey, 930 Metcalfe Street, Oak Bay, became the bride of Charles R. J. Hibbett of James Island, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hibbett of Georgetown, P.E.I.

Regal lilies, syringa, pink gladioli and carnations and blue delphinium were banked at the chancel rail. Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunns officiated. The wedding music was played by the church organist, Mr. F. T. C. Wickett, and as the register was being signed, Maude Hiller sang "O Perfect Love."

The bride, who was given away by her stepfather, Mr. Wm. G. Carey, wore a floor-length gown of palest pink embroidered chenille organza, with sweetheart neckline and short sleeves outlined with narrow self-ruffles, the waist shirred at the hip line into the very full skirt which graduated in to a slight train. Her poke bonnet was of the same material as her frock, with velvet streamers and in her pink lace-mittened hands she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations, Ophelia roses, pink larkspur and blue scabiosa, showered with roses.

Miss Edna Raper, the only bridesmaid, wore a powder-blue frock of sheer, with bouffant skirt, fitted waistline and bishop sleeves, and a poke bonnet of similar material. Her colonial bouquet was composed of pink carnations, white larkspur and blue delphinium. Mr. Edward W. Rowbotham was best man, and Messrs. Gordon King and James Martyn acted as ushers.

A number of guests were welcomed later at the reception held at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel. Tall baskets of delphinium, carnations and snapdragons were arranged at either side of the fireplace in the dining-room, where the bride and groom were assisted in receiving by Mrs. Carey, mother of the bride, wearing a navy blue afternoon frock appliqued in white flowers, small model navy blue hat trimmed with pale blue ribbon and shoulder veil, navy accessories, and a corsage bouquet of gardenias and blue delphinium.

The beautifully appointed supper table was centred with the magnificent wedding cake, which was a gift to the bridegroom from the cooking staff of the James Island Community Club. Other handsome gifts included the silver tray presented to the bride by her former associates in the Bank of Toronto, and trillite lamp and plate silverware from the groom's associates at James Island, where he is resident engineer.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Hibbett left for a honeymoon up-island and on the mainland, the bride donning a light brown gabardine tailored suit, cinnamon felt hat with a wide, rolled brim, and brown snakeskin accessories. They will make their home at James Island.

CONDONNIER—PURVES

At 10 a.m. Saturday a quiet wedding was solemnized by Monsignor A. G. Baker at the Bishop's Palace between Miss Ellen Purves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Purves, 409 Dundas Street, and Mr. John B. Condonnier, Barnhartvale, B.C.

The bride wore a dusty rose silk jersey afternoon frock with a small navy and white hat with a blue veil and matching accessories and an orchid corsage. Miss Marie Murphy, R.N., in a smart navy and white ensemble, with Mr. M. Kalpin, acted as the attendants.

After the ceremony relatives and a few friends were entertained at the bride's home at a wedding luncheon. The table was centred with a white and silver bowl of mauve and white sweet peas, flanked by silver tapers in crystal holders. The toast to the bride was proposed by Dr. C. M. MacNaughton, after which the bride cut the wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Condonnier left

The bride was attired in a becoming frock of dull gold crepe, featuring corded self-trim and pin-tucked bodice. Red Cross Notes

JAM FOR BRITAIN

Instructions have just been sent to Red Cross branches and women's institutes re the making of jam for Britain. The Canadian Red Cross has set 600,000 pounds of jam and honey as its 1942 objective and is looking again this year to the fruitful province of B.C. for a substantial contribution. The Red Cross food conservation committee hopes to be able to provide 100,000 pounds of jam, made by Red Cross and W.I. members.

The Red Cross is financing cans, labels, cases, sugar, warehousing and shipping, and has asked volunteer groups in the fruit-growing areas to organize canning centres, secure surplus fruit and provide labor for processing. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board is allowing the Red Cross to purchase the extra amount of sugar which is needed for jam which is shipped overseas. Owing to shortage of cans, only four-pound jam cans can be secured, and therefore all fruit must be processed in the form of jam.

Last year the Red Cross was able to send more than 5 1/2 tons of B.C. jam and fruit in syrup via the Panama Canal to Britain, without ocean freight charges. Grateful letters for the delicious processed fruit from B.C. sent to nurseries and home for the aged in Britain are now being received.

The honorary treasurer of the Canadian Red Cross Society, Victoria city and district branch, acknowledges the following donations: Kyuquot Trollers' Co-operative Association $50 (campaign), North Saanich and Sidney unit $97.08, North Sidney schools entertainment $81, donations $15.75, Loyal Eight Bridge Club $2, Cloverdale unit $70.69, Mount View high school Junior Red Cross Society $48, British-Russian Alliance $38.56, Superfluities Store $16.50, George Jay unit $20.55, Otter Point school Junior Red Cross $11.16, H.M.C.S. Women Replacing Men in Many British Jobs

By ALAN RANDAL
LONDON (CP)—The BBC has added two more women announcers to its staff, bringing the total to 20. This is in line with wartime B.B.C. policy, pursued quietly, of replacing male announcers with women.

The two newcomers are Mary Malcolm and Joy Worth. Miss Malcolm, 24, is a tall, slim girl with rich brown hair, a granddaughter of Lily Langtry. In private life she is Lady Bartlett, wife of Sir Basil Bartlett, a major in the intelligence corps. Miss Worth is one of the Cavendishs; three, a singing trio well liked about London, and her speaking voice is as good as her singing.

But one BBC spot reserved "for men only" is the news-reading department. The BBC tried women news announcers and protests flooded in from all over. Yes, madam, most of the protests came from women.

GATHER POTATOES

As far as Britain's women go there's scarcely a wartime job they won't tackle. A newcomer to London can't help but admire the stout manner in which they go about their jobs, apparently not caring one bit that their hands are dirty, their fingernails black.

Down Penzance way dozens of shopgirls are sacrificing their weekly half holiday to help farmers gather the potato harvest. In the army the latest women's trade is that of "tank patcher"... Officially these girls of the A.T.A. are known as welders... and besides repairing tanks they work on firearms and army vehicles.

One of the welding trainees, Pte. R. L. Thomas of London, is a young widow... She joined up, she said, because if her husband were alive he'd be a soldier... That's some difference from You'd think Mrs. Marjorie Quilter would be worried about her hubby's hobby, but she's not. In fact she quite often helps him with it. He's a bomb-disposal man who does this job for fun, going around the country digging out unexploded bombs. And they say that occasionally Mrs. Quilter finds a "toy" for him to play with... Their last job together was at Canterbury.

JAMS and JELLIES made with CERTO turn out RIGHT

IT'S THE QUICK, EASY,
SURE WAY...NO WORRY...
NO GUESSWORK!

SHORT BOIL—For jam you need give only a one-minute to two-minute full, rolling boil—for jellies only a half-minute to a minute.

THRIFTY—As practically no juice has time to boil away you get up to two-thirds more jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit.

NATURAL TASTE—The boil is so short it cannot affect the fresh, natural taste or darken the color.

SURE RESULTS—Follow exactly the tested recipes given with Certo and you'll have lovely jams and jellies.

CERTO is Pectin Extracted from Fruit

When pectin is used in making jam and jelly, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board Order No. 150 allows you to use sugar not in excess of one and one-quarter pounds of sugar for each pound of fruit. On the basis that "fruit" means "unprepared" fruit, this allows you to make your jams and jellies the Certo way which gives you approximately two-thirds more jam or jelly from the same amount of fruit.

Look for Book of 72 Tested Recipes under the label of every Certo bottle.

Labor Shortage In Mines Serious

Increased base metal production in B.C. is wanted at the present time, Hon. Herbert Anscomb, Minister of Mines, said today in a survey of labor conditions confronting the mining industry.

"Actually copper production has been falling off rapidly," he said. "The first attempt will be to bring back base metal production to normal and then try to increase production by re-opening some idle properties. This depends on labor being available and on necessary supplies and materials."

The minister summed up the labor situation as follows: Since this time last year gold mines which have ceased operations or are in the process of closing down have released, and will release within the next few weeks, about 900 men. In addition to this it is estimated the operating gold mines have lost about 20 to 25 per cent of their crews, or a minimum of about 300 men. In the same time the base metal mines have lost many men and to bring production back to normal will take about 450 to 500 men. The lone mining industry, including gold mining and base metal mining, and exclusive of men employed in smelters, has lost during the last year nearly one-third of the men employed.

"From this it is obvious the release of men through the closing down of gold mining operations has not, to date, benefitted the base metal mining industry," Mr. Anscomb said. "The situation has become so serious that action has had to be taken by Ottawa."

Public Again Warned About Sea Foods

Clams and mussels in coastal waters are still dangerous for human consumption and should not be taken or eaten, either cooked or raw until further notice, the B.C. Department of Health advised today.

"Laboratory investigations indicate clams from a number of areas in the province are still highly toxic," an official said. "These toxic areas are not confined to outside waters, but also include inside areas between Vancouver Island and the mainland."

Encouragement of the singing of traditional Scottish songs and the maintenance of Scottish customs is one of the aims of the Scottish Women's Society of Vancouver, recently incorporated under the Societies Act, at the Parliament Buildings.

No Oriental Lawyers In This Province

There are no Japanese or Chinese lawyers in this province, a member of the B.C. Law Society said today.

He was commenting on the speech of Angus MacInnis, C.C.F. member of the House of Commons for Vancouver East, who said a Japanese Canadian was refused admittance to the Nova Scotia Bar Association.

The president of the association replied "I understand British Columbia does not allow the entrance to the bar of Japanese under any circumstances—both Mr. MacInnis and Mr. Tamaki (the Japanese in question) are residents of British Columbia."

"The president of the Nova Scotia bar association is quite right," the B.C. law official said today. "We have had one or two applications for enrolment as students. Chinese and Japanese are not on the voters' list and persons not on the voters' list cannot become lawyers."

There are Japanese lawyers in the United States, a number having been in Seattle until recent months, American-born Japanese are given the vote.

B.C. Strawberries For Britain

B.C. expects to ship more than 700 tons of processed strawberries to the United Kingdom during the next few weeks, Hon. Herbert Anscomb, Minister of Trade and Industry, agents for the Special Products Board, said today.

At the moment 529 long tons (net fruit) are packed and ready for shipment.

"Sterling credit is being established by the United Kingdom Ministry of Food, through the Special Products Board at Ottawa, and the growers' organizations will receive prompt payment against on-board bills of lading by cheques which are drawn on a trust account established with the provincial Minister of Finance," Mr. Anscomb said.

Organizations concerned in this movement have, this year, faced difficult and disturbing factors. All the berries, processed in So2, come from the coast area where production was seriously affected by the Japanese evacuation, by shortage of labor and unfavorable weather.

funds and make wearing apparel for men in the armed services.

Russ Ambassador Denies Charges

MOSCOW (AP)—Tass, Russian news agency, circulated abroad today a denial by Constantine Oumansky, former ambassador to the United States, that he had passed on to the German charge d'affaires in Washington advance information from the State Department on Germany's plans to attack the Soviet Union.

(Oumansky was replaced as envoy in Washington last November by Maxim Litvinoff. German-Russian hostilities started June 22, last year.)

The statement circulated by Tass follows:

"The American magazine Ladies' Home Journal has published an article the authors of which allege that while I was Soviet ambassador to the United States I communicated to the then German charge d'affaires in Washington the contents of a statement made to me early in 1941 by Mr. Sumner Welles to the effect that, according to information at the disposal of the American government, Germany was preparing to attack the Soviet Union."

"Without going into some other incorrect statements contained in the article in question, I declare that there is, of course, not a shadow of truth in the allegations that I communicated that statement of Mr. Sumner Welles to anybody but my government."

"I am disgusted by this calumny. I think, though, that there are nowadays few credulous people in the United States who would believe such malicious fabrications so widely circulated."

LOCAL BASEBALL has lost one of its star performers with the announced retirement of Barney Barnswell, clever second baseman of the Pitzer and Nex club. The slender veteran, who packs more baseball lore in his head than the average amateur ball player, has voluntarily hung up his shoes. It appears that Barnswell had a little disagreement with one of his teammates and decided to give up the game.

Baseball has lost a real ball player's player in Barnswell. He was a hustler all the way and played the game with his head. He was recognized by all the managers as the leading second sacker in the league and it is a shame that his services will no longer be available to Pitzer and Nex and the Victoria All-Stars. Barnswell was a cinch to grab off the key-stone position on the representative club. We talked to Manager Bert Nex of Pitzer and Nex Friday night and he confirmed Barnswell's retirement. "Barney intended to retire at the end of the present season but, when a little misunderstanding developed with one of the other players he figured he might just as well call it a day," Nex stated. "I have tried everything to get him back but Barney remains firm in his decision to stay on the sidelines."

We understand a couple of the other teams in the league have also tried to get Barnswell to turn out again, but he refuses to change his decision. Well, we hope Barney thinks better of his move and again dons the spikes as Victoria fans are going to miss him. Although a veteran in experience, Barnswell is just a young fellow in years and has many baseball seasons ahead of him if he really wants to get out there and play the game. We know Barnswell loves the sport and we feel he should be playing.

Another loss to baseball will be big Charlie Burnett, likeable first baseman of the Eagles. Stationed here with the United States Army, Burnett was one of the most popular players in the circuit. As a matter of fact, Burnett felt pretty bad when he strolled into the press box Friday night to say good-bye. He has made a lot of friends during his sojourn in this city and his departure will mean the end of some treasured associations. We wish him "good luck" wherever his duties may take him.

Our hats off to young Sid Watson of the Oaklands lacrosse team. This youngster strolled around for a whole week with a cracked vertebrae in his back and didn't know a thing about it. When he finally was bothered by a soreness he wandered into a doctor's office and was informed he will have to go into a cast for several weeks. It marked the finish of his lacrosse playing for this season and postponed Watson's efforts to join the air force.

Bang tails wound up their first season at Hastings Park Saturday. The ponies will enjoy a layoff (and do they need it with the current shortage of horse flesh) until Saturday, when another seven-day meeting will get under way. The second week of racing will see limit fields, with a better variety, as 100 new horses, including the leading handicap runners, left Winnipeg Saturday night for the coast. Included in the shipment was Maginot Line, "Doc" Appleby's great campaigner who upset the racing world by whipping Ten to Ace in the Canadian Derby. Appleby has declared his intention of running the handicap act at Hastings.

Other stars expected to reach Hastings this week are Pom Kee, Contributor, Chief Ritchie and possibly George Irvine's Palmera T and Over Drive. However, we have a feeling that Palmera T, Over Drive and Maginot Line will go on to Longacres where the purses are more lucrative.

Army-V.M.D. Victors

Home runs held the spotlight as senior amateur ball teams hooked up in a pair of games Saturday. In the afternoon engagement between the Army and Royal Canadian Air Force circuit blows accounted for all three runs as the soldiers sneaked in with a 2 to 1 triumph while in the night attraction Ian Lowe contributed a home run as the league-leading V.M.D. blanked the last-place Eagles 6 to 0.

Elmer (Shadow) Kreller, who thrilled the hockey fans with his brilliant play last winter, treated the baseball fans to some excitement in the afternoon game, when he lashed out a long hit to deep right field in the sixth inning, with Palmer resting on second base, to give the Army its winning runs. The Air Force had moved into a 1 to 0 lead in the third inning when Jack McDonald lifted the ball over the centre field fence.

Lloyd Cann was the winning pitcher, allowing six hits and striking out 10. Except for the third, Cann never allowed more than one hit in a single inning. The veteran displayed good control, giving a lone base on balls. Portside Bert Appleby worked for the Flyers and but for Kreller's homer would have won his game. He gave up only four hits and, like Cann, issued only one walk.

GAME TONIGHT

By their victory the Army moved into fourth place, half a game back of Pitzer and Nex. These two clubs will battle tonight at 6.30 in a game which will determine which squad remains in the third slot.

With young Ronnie France, 17-year-old mound star, holding the Eagles to two hits the V.M.D. had little trouble chalking up another triumph. France struck out only one but received grand support from his teammates who turned in an errorless night. Eagles used three hurlers in an effort to halt the league leaders, with Berkeley starting, to be replaced by Burnett, who in turn was chased in favor of Maitland. Berkeley was charged with the defeat.

V.M.D. put the game in the cooler in the fourth inning when they bunched five hits which were good for four runs. In addition to hitting a homer Lowe cracked out a triple in four times at bat.

Angus McIntyre Wins Golf Final

Angus McIntyre was the winner of the grand prize of $100 war savings bond as the third annual Gyro Club hole-in-one golf tournament was brought to a close Saturday night. McIntyre's winning shot finished just two and a half inches from the cup for the closest of any competitor during the four-day competition.

Runner-up Mo McIntyre was Mrs. McKenzie with a drive five inches away, while Bert Irish finished third by being 16 1/2 inches from the flag.

The final was attended by a large crowd and officials of the Gyro Club announced a handsome sum had been realized for the Solarium. The actual figures will be made public at a later date.

Winners of the tombola prizes follow: Jack Howell, Miss J. Mayhew, Dr. D. A. McInnes, Ernie Todd (twice), Mrs. Challenor, Fred Hawes, F. K. Brown, Knott and Elford, W. W. McGregor, E. N. Horsey, S. Goodman, Mr. Wilkes, G. Peterson, A. J. Look, G. N. Roberts, M. Green, T. Hodder, G. Moore and D. Leary. R. Taylor was the lucky winner of the load of wood Saturday.

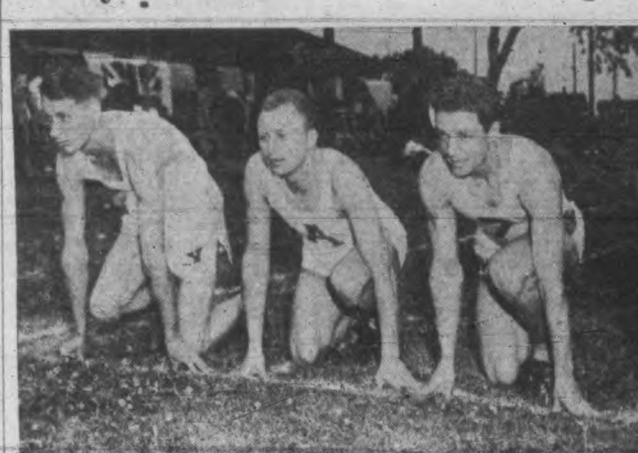

Miss I. Jarvis Wins

Miss I. Jarvis won the women's championship of the Gorge Vale Golf Club Sunday, defeating Mrs. A. O. Cooke 1 up in the 18-hole final. Miss Jarvis was the tournament medalist.

Mrs. D. Bennett took the first flight from Miss D. Bennett 1 up, while Mrs. Dave Hurdle captured the second flight from Miss H. Kitt 6 and 5.

Prizes were presented at the conclusion by Dave Hurdle, club president.

Navy Track Stars Triumph

Sprint stars of the services are lined up for the 100-yard dash in the above picture taken at the annual sports Saturday at Macdonald Park. They are from left to right: John Stewart, army; Nick Scheidel, army; Ozzie Allison, navy and Art Brookman, navy. The last-named is the lad who cleaned up to lead his sailor teammates to the team championship. Brookman registered victories in the 100 and 220-yard sprints, broad jump and the softball throw.

Paced by the locomotive that runs like a man, Art Brookman, Royal Canadian Navy track and field star, cleaned up on all and sundry opposition in the annual interservice track and field meet at Macdonald Park, Saturday afternoon.

Ambling Arthur, who started his running in Mount View High School, later raced for the Y.M.C.A., and is now track captain of the sailor team, picked up 24 points all by himself to boost the Navy total to 53. The Army placed second with 27 points, R.C.A.F. third with 18, and the R.A.F. last with four points.

Brookman pounded home first in the 100-yard event in 10.45, took the broad jump with a cross country leap of 21 feet 1 1/4 inches, won the 220-yard dash in 23 seconds flat, won the softball throw with a gentle toss of 260 feet 4 inches, placed third in the shot put, second in the hop, step and jump, and took his part in the Navy mile, half-mile and quarter-mile relay victories.

Indeed, Brookman had a successful afternoon. His only beef was that he could not get in more events.

OTHER WINNERS

There were, however, others competing in the meet. Victoria's Bill Dale, racing under R.C.A.F. colors and out of condition, took the 440-yard event in 53.25 after a grand finish with Navy's Cowan. In the 880 Cowan just nosed out Dale to win the race in 2:13.35.

Army's Brisbane won the shot put with a toss of 35 feet. Brady, a writer in the Navy, won the three-mile jaunt in four seconds over 15 minutes, while R.C.A.F.'s Jones took the discs with a toss of 129 feet 5 inches.

Wilkinson of the Navy won the high jump, clearing the bar at 5 feet 7 inches. Pickering of the Army won the 120-yard hurdles in 19 and 23 seconds.

The Army tug-of-war team, coached by Campbell Forbes, won all its pulls, defeating the Navy in two straight tugs in the final.

Results follow:
100 Yards—1. Brookman (Navy); 2. Allison (Navy); 3. Stewart (Army). Time, 10.45.

Resume Track Program
Regular track and field work-outs of the Y.M.C.A. will resume Tuesday evening at 6.30 at Victoria High School grounds, it was announced today by Archie McKinnon. Usual Thursday and Saturday classes will also be held, following a week's let-up due to the locals participating in the annual public track meet held in Vancouver last week.

Victoria "Y" stars made a splendid showing at the meet. It was their 16th consecutive performance in the event. Workouts now will be in preparation for the annual Highland Games to be held in Macdonald Park, July 25.

National All-Stars Rule Favorites to Win Battle

Bays Register One-sided Win

The local box lacrosse and debating society swung into action again, Saturday night, and after an evening of fair lacrosse, spiced with argument and oratory ruled that James Bay had definitely come out of its current slump. Ted Menzies' stickhandlers licked the hapless Douglas Tire, 27 to 10, and so doing took a firmer grip on first spot and left the tiremen where they started at the beginning of the season two months ago—in last place.

The brand of lacrosse the Bays were playing would never have set the world on fire, but the kind played by the tiremen would have put out any conflagration. A severe shortage of players was their first trouble. Ever since Douglas Tire's Napalm Redskins found they could put their gas ration coupons to better use than utilizing them in the round-trip to Victoria and back each week-end, the great white sachem, Gus Munro, has been pinched for players. He had, however, two local Indians, but Saturday night they didn't turn up. The fishing season had lured them away.

So Gus sent a line of senior players on the floor, managed to get together some junior reserves which he used sparingly and then hoped for the best.

In the first half his team held its own. The boys were losing 5 to 3 at the end of the first canto but kept up the brisk pace in the second quarter and were down only four goals at half-time. The score was 13 to 9.

ARE OUTCLASSED

However, in the second half, the wear and tear began to tell and the tiremen soon had no kick left. The regulars had just been overplayed and they couldn't get moving. In the whole of the last half they scored only one goal, this two minutes from time.

During that last half hour Bays tossed 14 markers behind goalie Joe Bryant, who, by the way, played his poorest game of the season.

Leading the Bay attack was that peer of the team, Arnold Ferguson. He set up plays, scored goals and took much punishment to pace the Bays the whole distance. His nine goals and five assists boosted his already formidable record this season. Scoring five goals, shifty Menzies followed Fergy. Menzies' newest junior acquisition, Bob Hetherington, gave a good account of himself, scoring four goals.

Bobby Barr with three goals and Gib Stevens with two topped the Douglas Tire lads. There were only two assists given the tiremen's goals and Andy Ovcharick got both.

In the preliminaries, Young Jokers beat Owl 8 to 7 in a juvenile A game, and V.M.D. youngsters made a weirdly spectacular debut by losing to the James Bay Midgets, 25 to 0.

Chattman Captures Longacres Feature

SEATTLE (AP)—Chattman, an eight-year-old horse up from Agua Caliente, won his second featured race in a week at Longacres Sunday, taking the $1,205 one-mile Bremerton Handicap.

Chattman won the same purse Sunday in the seven-furlong Tacoma Handicap. The winner paid $8, $2.90 and $2.50 Sunday.

Real Article, which was third last week, placed Sunday, returning $2.80 and $2.50. Golden Emblem took the show spot, paying $3.80.

Budge Pro Champion

NEW YORK (AP)—Don Budge's crackling forehand drives exploded around Bobby Riggs Saturday and hoisted the red head into the United States professional tennis championship.

The score was 6-2, 6-2, figures which hardly explain the complete mastery of the Oakland, Calif., star.

The men's doubles championship went to Budge and Riggs, who defeated Frank Kovacs of Oakland, Calif., and Bruce Barnes, Austin, Tex., 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Passeau and Chandler Take Mound First

NEW YORK (AP)—For perhaps the first time since baseball's annual all-star classic was inaugurated 10 years ago, the National League's standard bearers will be the logical favorites when they clash with the American Leaguers this evening in the Polo Grounds.

Trailing three victories to six in the previous nine games, the National Leaguers are seriously determined to win this one on superior pitching and to whittle down the advantage the junior circuit has built up by its vastly greater slugging ability. Loss of three of their principal stars of last year's triumph at Detroit—Bobby Feller, Cecil Travis and Bill Dickey—has seriously weakened the American Leaguers.

The Nationals not only boast their usual fine set of pitchers, but they will go into tonight's game fortified by a group of hitters who, by the average at least, stack up right alongside their rivals' star maulers.

Another point: The National Leaguers would love to win this one. The team that is in front when the last out is made under the lights tonight will hustle for Cleveland to appear against Lieut. Mickey Cochrane's Service All-Stars in a second benefit game Tuesday night. It would give the Nationals particular delight to represent the big leagues in an American League city.

EXPECT BIG CROWD

A crowd of more than 50,000 is expected to assemble under Coogan's Bluff to see the start of today's game in the lengthening shadows. Somewhere past midway of the contest it will be necessary to snap on the flood-lights.

This was an important consideration in Manager Leo Durocher's decision to start Claude Passeau of Chicago Cubs against the American Leaguers, rather than Mort Cooper, St. Louis Cardinals' fireballer. Leo figures Cooper's speed will make him well nigh invisible to the batters during that eerie period after the lights are burning and the day still is fading.

Between Passeau and Cooper, it is likely that Durocher will call upon his own wheelhorse, Whitlow Wyatt, for a three-inning chore.

Bill Dickey, veteran Yankee catcher is definitely out of the game, leaving the American League with the necessity of starting weak-hitting Birdie Tebbets of Detroit Tigers behind the plate.

Most observers leaned toward Spurgeon Chandler, Yankee right-hander, as the American League's starting pitcher.

If Chandler does start, the Na-

Burnside Club Bowlers Champs

Burnside lawn bowlers emerged triumphant in Vancouver Island singles matches, Saturday afternoon, E. Myers and Mrs. A. W. Stewart of the Burnside club winning the Peace and the Wenger Cups, respectively.

Myers defeated Victoria West's J. Davis in the final, 18 to 15, to win the men's singles championship of the island while Mrs. Stewart beat Mrs. E. T. Simmons of the Beacon Hill club, 15 to 10, to win the island women's singles.

In the women's match Mrs. G. Upward of Lake Hill finished in third place and Mrs. E. R. Etheridge of the C.P.R. club placed fourth. In a consolation game, entries from those eliminated in the first and second rounds, the triples team of Mrs. B. Mowatt, Mrs. Harker and Mrs. Watt ended on top.

In the men's matches Davis defeated G. A. Marconini of the Victoria club to enter the final while Myers beat W. H. Leggett of the C.P.R. club.

Mrs. W. Bealey, president of the Greater Victoria Ladies' Lawn Bowling Association, presented the prizes at the end of the day's matches. H. A. Beckwith, president of the Greater Victoria Lawn Bowling Association, conducted the opening ceremonies.

FIVE C's DEFEAT NAVY CRICKETERS

By a margin of 120 to 49 Five C's captured Saturday's league cricket match from the Navy. After losing their first two batsmen for 18 runs the C's settled down and Griffin and Quanten put 78 on the board before the latter was retired. Quanten contributed 25 runs and Griffin 24.

Only two Navy batsmen to reach double figures were Pugh with 17 and Horne with 12.

Attwell and Payne handled all the C's bowling with the former taking seven wickets for 22 runs and Payne four for 23. Strina topped the Navy trundlers with five wickets for 24.

Oak Bay Golfers Win

By a margin of 13 1/2 to 2 1/2 golfers of the Victoria Club defeated a team from the Gorge Vale Club Sunday in an inter-club match at Oak Bay.

The home club players won the singles 5 1/2 to 2 1/2 and scored an 8 to 0 triumph in the fourball matches.

Leagueurs will line-up with five left-hand clubbers at the top of their batting order.

Youthful Lust
Kayoes Berger

CALGARY (CP)—Al Lust, blond 21-year-old Medicine Hat boxer who now lives here, today was being hailed by Calgary fight fans as the new Canadian welter-weight champion.

Al, who joined the Canadian (Active) Army recently and will report for duty today, unleashed a furious two-fisted attack in the final round to score a knockout over Maxie Berger of Montreal, 50 seconds from the end of a 12-round bout here Saturday night. Both boxers weighed 145 pounds.

The bout was recognized as a Canadian title affair by the Western Canada Boxing and Wrestling Federation, which has its headquarters in the east.

A recent announcement by Dave Castiloux, present Canadian champion, that he had voluntarily renounced his crown, however, may influence the Canadian Federation to recognize Lust as the new titleholder.

A crowd of 2,500 Saturday watched Lust come out in the 12th round, belt the Montrealer around and then move in for the kill. The fight was one of the greatest ring battles this city has seen in 25 years.

Lust dazed the easterner with a hard right to the head, battered him against the ropes, then sent over an overhand right to the side of the jaw and stepped back as Berger crumpled to the canvas. It took 10 minutes of first aid and medical attention to bring Berger around.

Allege Japanese
Went Slow in China

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts, AP)—The German radio broadcast a Tokyo dispatch today saying that in five years of war with China, Japan refrained from using her full power because potential threats from the United States, Britain and Russia had to be taken into consideration.

On the eve of the anniversary of the Japanese-Chinese "incident" which started July 7, 1937, a German correspondent in Tokyo wrote:
"The fact is Japan never displayed her whole military strength against Chiang Kai-shek because opposition to Japan's eastern Asiatic plans in the first instance had to be taken into account by the Japanese general staff."

"From the sea Japan always was threatened by England and the United States and on land by her traditional opponent Russia, which never acquiesced in the fact that in Manchukuo Japan had created a powerful base on the Asiatic continent."

"Violent frontier skirmishes between Soviet and Japanese forces in 1938 near Changkufeng, on the eastern border of Manchukuo, and in 1939 near Monhon, on the northwestern frontier, as well as severe anti-Japanese economic measures by Great Britain and the United States showed Japan could never ignore the possibility of serious dangers coming from these countries."

"These facts particularly explain that the Japanese advance in China had to come to a standstill after initial big successes."

ROYAL PREMIERE
FOR NEAGLE FILM

A huge crowd cheered Queen Mary when, accompanied by the Duke of Kent, she appeared at the Odeon Theatre, Leicester Square, London, to see the premiere of "Sixty Glorious Years," with Anna Neagle in the role of Victoria which comes today to the York Theatre.

The box receipts of the evening went to the Mount Vernon Hospital for cancer. Besides the Duke of Kent, the Marquess and Marchioness of Cambridge accompanied Her Majesty. Nurses from the hospital officiated as program-sellers. The audience cheered when special newsreel shots showed Queen Mary opening Lambeth Town Hall earlier in the afternoon. Later Queen Mary saw herself again on the screen in the episode depicting the balcony scene at Buckingham Palace on Coronation Day.

EARLY DAYS OF NEWSPAPER SHOWN

Today's mammoth presses that send forth thousands of multi-paged editions per hour had a beginning far less glorious.

That humble beginning forged with sweat, brains and courage, is graphically depicted in the Atlas new picture "Wild Bill Hickok Rides," which co-stars Constance Bennett and Bruce Cabot in a thrilling real-life story carved from the West's early days.

Not that "Wild Bill Hickok Rides" is a newspaper story. Far from it. This western is just what its title implies—a rip-roaring lusty tale of wild-west heroics and blazing six-shooters.

Few Forest Fires

Despite the hot, dry weather of recent days, few forest fires occurred in B.C. during the last week, a forest branch report today said.

To date there have been 142 forest fires reported in the province. At this time last year there were 318 and the year before 485. There are nine small fires burning at the present time, 15 having been extinguished during the week.

"With hazardous conditions rapidly approaching, the public is warned to exercise extreme care with fire in the forests," a forest branch spokesman said today.

TOWN TOPICS

A woman motorist was fined $5 in police court today for failing to heed a red traffic signal. Two motorists were fined $2.50 each on parking convictions.

W. T. McGibben, in a letter to the City Council, asks why parking of cars near the bandstand at Beacon Hill Park for Sunday concerts has been prohibited.

Quatsino and Clayoquot mining divisions have been amalgamated, with headquarters at Tofino. E. Evenson, 78, mining recorder at Quatsino since 1918, has retired.

During an epidemic of thefts from parked automobiles in Vancouver over the last few days, one of the victims was Mrs. C. F. Armstrong of York Place, Oak Bay who lost a suitcase and clothing from her car outside the Hotel Vancouver.

A request for "substantial financial assistance" was made by the Victoria Hostess Club to the City Council in a letter received at the City Hall today. The letter set forth the activities and objects of the club, declared it an organization of some benefit to the community.

Saanich firemen fought a bush fire on Sparrow Road, near the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Little Saanich Mountain, for three hours Saturday evening. A high wind hampered their efforts and it took them from 5.40 to 9.15 to bring the blaze under control. Much grass and bush was burned but the flames did not endanger any buildings.

Miss Neagle Honors Leader of Air Cadets

Leaving Victoria on the afternoon boat today Anna Neagle star of "Celebrity Parade," who appeared here Saturday in aid of the Air Cadet League of Canada, left one boy in sky-blue uniform proud and happy.

He was Air Cadet Sgt. Major Fred Donaghy, who was in charge of the cadets who formed a guard of honor for the troupe when they arrived here Friday. This afternoon Miss Neagle, impressed by the smartness and military efficiency of the boys, presented him with a souvenir of her visit as she took leave of the city.

M.D. 11 Settles in Vancouver

Personnel of M.D. 11 Headquarters, stationed here since its creation in 1906, are seen above arriving in Vancouver, Saturday.

For the first time in over half a century, Work Point Barracks today and Sunday was virtually denuded of military staff, a situation created when officers and men of Military District 11 Headquarters were transferred to Vancouver. The move, involving approximately 450 officers and men, took place Saturday and by Sunday the men had settled down in their new quarters in the Hotel Vancouver barracks.

The transfer involved no combat troops, headquarters staff consisting of such units as administration, pay corps, ordnance and army service corps.

The transfer severs a military connection with this city that started 55 years ago.

Work Point was picked out as headquarters for army detachments in B.C. in 1887 by Sir Joseph Philippe Rene Adolphe Caron, Minister of Militia.

FIRST PERMANENT FORCE

Nov. 10, 1887 C Battery, from Kingston, arrived here from Vancouver by the old Ss. Princess Louise and was met by a guard of militia under Lt. Col. Richard Wolfenden. This was the first permanent force of Canada to be stationed on the Pacific coast suitably welcomed.

The officers and men marched immediately to the old exhibition buildings on the Heywood Avenue grounds of Beacon Hill park. Fourteen days later came Sir Adolphe, who commenced negotiations to purchase Work Point land from the Puget Sound Agricultural Co.

With Sir Adolphe was Col. Walker Powell, adjutant-general of militia, and they were honor guests at a civic banquet at Dr. House.

C Battery arrived under command of Major James Peters, after whom Peters Street, near Work Point Barracks, was named. He died here some years ago.

The battery was authorized in 1884, but there was a long delay in its arrival. Only after frequent pleadings by Victoria members of Parliament, Edgar Crowe Baker and Neah Shakespeare, were the soldiers sent here.

During those years there was much argument as to whether Victoria or Vancouver should be the army headquarters on the coast. Maj. Gen. Fred Middleton, in command of militia, in his annual report of 1884, favored Vancouver as being more centrally located than Victoria and holding a more strategic position as western terminus of the Canadian Pacific.

It is interesting to note now that from 1863, when the Royal Engineers, left, until 1887 there were no regular soldiers in Victoria, only nonactive militia.

CHANGED HIS NAME

Work Point was named after John Wark, who was born in Ireland in 1792, chief factor for the Hudson's Bay Co. here in 1846, appointed in 1857 a member of the Legislative Council of Vancouver Island and died at his Victoria home, "Hillside," in 1901. He later changed his name to Work when some papers he sent to England were mistaken for that name. Rather than send them back with its long delay, he made his name conform.

Canada took over her own military affairs from the Imperial Government in 1906 and since then a long line of noted Canadian soldiers of the present war have been D.O.C. stationed at Work Point. Maj. Gen. Geo. Pearkes, V.C., now in command of a Canadian division, was once in command there. Lt. Gen. Kenneth Stuart, chief of general staff, also served at Work Point as a major. Lt. Gen. E. C. Ashton has been in command there and Brig. J. C. Stewart, now overseas, was D.O.C. when war started in 1939.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The entire administrative staff of headquarters of Military District No. 11 was doing business in new quarters in Vancouver today following weekend transfer from Victoria. Operations' staffs of the army, navy, and air force will follow shortly to complete the reorganization of Pacific Command.

"The new move will centralize all military activity on the Pacific coast and, consequently, will help in speeding up all administrative operations," said Col. R. G. Whitlaw, district officer commanding.

Among officers moving from Victoria are Lieut. Col. H. R. W. Allan, A.A. and Q.M.G.; Lieut. Col. T. A. H. Taylor, Officer Commanding Pacific Coast Militia Rangers; Lieut. Col. M. R. Ten Broeke, general officer in charge of training; Lieut. Col. H. E. Goodman, district recruiting officer; Maj. J. O. F. H. Orr, judge-advocate general; Lieut. Col. A. W. Black, Lieut. Col. W. A. Wilson, district medical officer, and Maj. H. G. Barstow, district paymaster.

In the week-end more files and equipment were shipped here on barges with the staff following later on steamers.

Summer School Welcomes 600

The essential place of the teaching profession in wartime as well as peacetime was stressed by Dr. C. B. Conway, director, as he welcomed approximately 600 teacher-students to the annual Summer School at Victoria High today.

Addressing the student body at special opening ceremonies, Dr. Conway noted many teachers might consider their activity proud in comparison to some of the more venturesome wartime pursuits of others, but it was nevertheless a highly important profession in the molding of future citizens.

He remarked on the reduced number of men attending class, noting that was to be expected. The women would have to carry the main burden of education for the duration, he said.

Dr. Conway drew to the attention of outside teachers the atmosphere of wartime here, noting blackout curtains and the conversion of the Normal School into a military medical centre.

LOSE TEACHER

It had come closer to the Summer School itself, he said, through the loss of Dr. Mary Luff, B.A., B.Sc., M.D., who had arranged to continue her course in child psychology, but who had been drafted by the British government to a post as psychiatrist for the British Army in England.

Dr. Florence Mateer, director of the Mary Hart School of Corrective Education at Columbus, Ohio, had agreed to carry on Dr. Luff's more important classes, Dr. Conway said. His announcement was warmly greeted by the student body.

Dr. Conway also noted changes in personnel, saying Harold L. Campbell, former director, was now city municipal inspector, and Miss Marion James, primary specialist, a member of the staff, also was employed by the city as primary supervisor.

BOARD GREETING

Trustee F. G. Mulliner, chairman of the Victoria School Board, extended a welcome on behalf of the board. He, too, emphasized the importance of the teaching profession in creating God-fearing and responsible citizens from

Saanich Indian Shooting Victim

Slaying of Henry George Cooper, 29-year-old South Saanich Indian, who succumbed to gunshot wounds Sunday night in Kitsap County Hospital in Washington State, is being investigated today by Kitsap County sheriffs at Seattle.

A 29-year-old Filipino is being held for questioning in connection with the case. Cooper was taken to Seattle by the coastguard from Winslow, Wash., Sunday morning. James Johnson, Kitsap deputy sheriff, said Cooper was shot as he and his family, with other ferry pickers, were walking from the ferry landing at Winslow toward Bravo Ranch, where they were employed.

Witnesses told Johnson the Filipino was sitting in the back of a truck nearby and took a .32 calibre automatic from his pocket and fired three shots, one of which struck Cooper in the chest. The Filipino then jumped from the truck and ran down the road, throwing the gun into the bushes, Johnson said. He was arrested in his Winslow home later.

Brentwood Bay residents said today Henry Cooper was the son of Martin Cooper of the Parslip Indian Reservation, West Saanich Road, near Mount Newton.

Chamber Asks Wartime Houses For Shipworkers

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, unanimous in their decisions that Victoria must have wartime houses for shipyard workers, at a meeting today appointed a committee to interview Mayor Andrew McGavin this afternoon and request him to call an emergency meeting of the City Council to reconsider their decision.

If this is ineffective the directors will probably urge the Minister of Munitions and Supply to expropriate the land to build the houses.

H. S. Hammill, manager of one Victoria shipyard, told the directors the building of 100 houses would just be a start. He said there were 342 names on the list for the wartime houses already. He said he thought 500 could be filled immediately.

Mr. Hammill said 50 per cent of the steel used by the firm came from the United States with the stipulation that four ships be built per berth per year. He said his firm was unable to meet this requirement because it could not get or keep labor.

"At the present time we are losing 200 to 300 men per month through various reasons, the main one of which is lack of housing," Mr. Hammill said.

MAY LOSE STEEL

He said if his firm was unable to get men to expand the program to four ships per berth per year, the supply of U.S. steel would probably no longer be available.

The firm, he said, was employing 2,400 men and the payroll was $500,000 per month.

Mr. Hammill said the City Council had failed to endorse the contract with Wartime Housing because it appeared to them that it was not in the interests of the city of Victoria.

"It would seem from that the council does not want these men," Mr. Hammill was asked. "Apparently not," he replied. Asked what was the attitude of Ottawa towards expropriation, R. H. Shanks, chairman of the Real Estate Board of Victoria, which was represented at the meeting, said Ottawa could "do anything they wish," but Ottawa did not want to antagonize the public.

He said if they want to expropriate they will, but only if it was for something "pretty important." Mr. Shanks said it seemed to him they wanted palaces for workmen while members of the forces lived in paper-roofed houses. He said wartime houses had been good enough for other parts of Canada, they should be good enough for Victoria.

"If only one alderman is necessary to change the council's opinion, how about a delegation to get one alderman to change it," Mr. Shanks suggested.

J. H. Wilson said it seemed to him the war effort was being stymied by a few citizens and three members of the City Council.

J. V. Johnson said "we're fiddling while Rome burns," and if the council blocks it, the land should be expropriated.

Called to the Bar

Arthur Parsons Dawe of Victoria, who won $400,000 in the Irish Sweepstakes in 1929, was called to the bar of British Columbia before Mr. Justice Coady in Supreme Court in Vancouver today.

Several years ago Mr. Dawe returned to the University of British Columbia and was graduated with his B.A.

Soon after the present war broke out he was granted a commission in the R.C.N.V.R. and served considerable time on the Atlantic. He was invalided out of the service several months ago.

Mr. Dawe was articled to J. B. Clearhugh, barrister and solicitor. He resides at Mt. Newton Cross Roads and is well known as a yachtsman and polo player.

Protest over the "awful noise" arising from practices of the "Ladies' Pipe Band" in North Ward School was voiced in a letter from a writer whose signature could not be deciphered, but whose address was listed as 2659 Douglas Street. The communication arrived at the City Hall today.

Dorothy Dix:

Men Endure Marriage Better Than Do Wives

A correspondent asks who stands the wear and tear of marriage better—men or women? Men apparently, for although we hear a great deal about the faithful and devoted wife and very little about the faithful and devoted husband, statistics show that in the great majority of divorce cases it is the wife who is the petitioner. And in a recent questionnaire, in which 100 married couples were asked how they liked the holy estate, far more husbands than wives replied that they were happy and contented in it.

This would seem to indicate that there are more good wives than there are good husbands, but common observation does not bear this theory out. Looking about among our married friends it seems to us, so far as livability is concerned, husbands and wives appear to be cut off the same bolt of cloth, and that there are just as many domestic martyrs of one sex as of the other. For if Mr. A. has a wandering foot, Mrs. A. has a perpetual-motion tongue; and if Mr. B. is a groucher, Mrs. B. is a henpecker, and so on down the long list of major and minor grievances that make the matrimonial route hard to travel.

Doubtless husbands have just as much to stand from their wives as wives have to endure from their husbands, but there is no denying that men meet the situation with more sportsmanship than women do. A man, for instance, rarely criticizes his wife to others, or makes a bid for the sympathy of his friends by telling what a poor housekeeper Mary is, or how Jane keeps his nose at the grindstone because of her extravagance, or how Maud nags the life out of him.

But where women gather together for a talkfest, the main topic of conversation is the faults and foibles of their husbands, and their favorite diversion is weeping on each other's breast and moaning out that their hearts are broken because their husbands take them for granted.

NEVER SNEAK OWN CHARACTER

Also, it is not uncommon for a husband to manufacture the evidence on which his wife gets a divorce—when she has become tired of him—in order to save her face, but you never hear of a woman smearing her own character, or letting herself be branded as being guilty of cruel and inhuman treatment of her husband in order to let him get a divorce to marry her rival.

The reason that men can take the ups and downs of marriage with more philosophy than women is probably because they are more realistic about their attitude toward life. They don't ask too much of it, marriage included. They know that nothing ever quite comes up to our expectations; that we have to work and sweat for all we get; that no undertaking is going to be all profit and no loss. So if their wives are reasonably cheerful and amiable and fairly good housekeepers they content themselves with their bargains.

But women can't do this because no amount of education or sophistication keeps them from believing in fairy tales, and that, no matter what has happened to their sisters and their cousins and their mothers, their marriages are going to be love idyls that will never grow stale, never lose their thrill, never outlive their romance. They expect to be perpetual brides, trailing clouds of glory for forty or fifty years.

THEY CAN'T TAKE IT When this doesn't happen, when their marriage comes down to earth with a dull, cold thud and is filled with work and worry, and babies and stretching dollars, and a husband who is more concerned over the state of the stock market than he is over the state of his heart, they simply can't take it without squawking to heaven about marriage being a failure.

If a man's marriage isn't all his fondest fancy painted, he has a consolation prize in his career. He has his work, which is the universal panacea for whatever ails us. He has something to think about besides his disillusion that Arabella is a human being instead of the pin-feathered angel he thought she was.

But the curse of domesticity for a woman is that while it employs her hands, it leaves her mind free to mull over her disappointment that marriage landed her in a two-by-four flat instead of an ivory tower, and to dream of what might have been if only she had espoused a career instead of a husband, or married the man she didn't marry.

So the reason that men are more content with marriage than women are, is because men take marriage as it is, while women yearn for it as it isn't.

'Little Dodoes' of Samoan Islands Escaped Pig and Cat Dangers

There is an expression "as dead as the dodo bird." That is a dead way to be, since the whole race of true dodoes seems to be gone. A few hundred years ago, those birds lived on Madagascar. They did not know how to fly, and were killed off after white men reached the island.

Pope 24

Special dangers later came to certain birds of the Samoan Islands. These birds are distant cousins of the dodo, and sometimes are called "little dodoes."

The little dodoes had the habit of making their nests on the ground. That was very well so long as there were no dangerous animals in their island homes.

White visitors, however, put pigs on the Samoan Islands, and some of the pigs ran wild. They were willing to eat almost anything, including little dodoes. The whites also brought domestic cats which looked for food in the jungles.

Next came a great step forward in the life of these birds. The smart little dodoes decided to make their nests in trees; or at least some of them did. Those which took to the trees were able to escape from the pigs and cats, and did not lose their young to such enemies.

So we still find little dodoes on the Samoan Islands in the Pacific Ocean. They also have the name of "tooth-billed pigeons." In the lower half of the bill, near the end, is a part which looks as though it had teeth in it. The "teeth" are a roughness of the bill, and are not true teeth like those of furry animals.

The Samoan Group contains four main islands. Besides those, there are a number of small islands.

Samoan natives have light brown skins. They welcomed the whites to their islands, and the pigs as well. The pigs supply them with pork, a food they greatly enjoy.

The two largest of the Samoan Islands are under control of New Zealand. The third largest belongs to the United States; it contains the best harbor in the region—Pago Pago. The United States also owns several of the smaller islands.

Although the Samoans enjoy pork, they have a strange custom about it. Native rules do not allow them to set pork on the table unless a guest is present.

Sometimes a family wants to eat pork but has no guest. In that case a messenger is sent out to look for a guest. The first man seen, even though a stranger, may be asked to help eat a pig. There are many kinds of breadfruit trees on the island, likewise 16 kinds of coconut palms. From the coconuts the Samoans take the "meat" and dry it. Under the name of "copra," the dried coconut meat is exported to foreign lands.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE, with Major Hoople

HIT JAP BASES
IN NEW GUINEA

In the battle of Australia, Allied headquarters announced that bombers, ranging far out over southwest Pacific waters, again pounded Japanese "invasion" bases in northeast New Guinea, Timor and the Solomon Islands.

Twenty-seven Japanese heavy bombers and six fighters attacked the Allied outpost at Port Moresby, New Guinea, but inlicted only light damage and casualties.

An Australian correspondent, quoted by BBC, declared almost nonstop Allied raids on Japanese bases above Australia were preventing the enemy from massing for a big-scale offensive.

"Our consistent attacks are hurting their striking power," the correspondent said.

NEW YORK (AP)—An old jinx and a couple of new hoodoos beat Whirlaway Saturday in one of the year's outstanding racing upsets.

Although he gained his usual city block in the stretch, the combination of a milk wagon load on his back and a short, strange stretch worked enough of a bag-aboo to make Warren Wright's whizzer wind up second to E. J. Sackett's lightly regarded Tola Rose in the rich Butler Handicap at Empire City, before a crowd of 34,728.

As was the case the last time Whirly was beaten, it took a few track records to do it.

The Rose, packing only 103 pounds compared to the 132 on Whirlaway, led from end to end to hit the wire in 1:56 2/5, lopping three-fifths of a second off the standard Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Lovely Night set up in winning this mile and three-sixteenths stake three years ago. He returned his supporters $33.60 for $2.

As a result, instead of crowding Seabiscuit's money winning record by picking up that $22,800 Butler pay-check, Whirly had to be satisfied with $6,000—second money in the feature of a program from which United States war relief funds received $100,000. The runner-up prize boosted Whirlaway's winnings to $410,486, leaving him $27,244 short of the Biscuit's total. He expects to make up this difference in the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk July 15.

Celebrity Parade
Reaches Journey's End

By E. M.

It was September, 1940. London was being bombed, the safe and free world was tottering, great heads were shaking ominously... the Duke of Wellington, Lord Nelson of the Nile, the Rt. Hon. Mr. Gladstone, Florence Nightingale. But a soft, tremulous, determined voice spoke:

"I don't think we have anything to worry about. My people will see to that. They always do."

It was Queen Victoria, in the gifted person of Anna Neagle. The setting was the eerie tomb of Westminster Abbey and the great of the past were assembled to hear Abraham Lincoln's appeal that his statue be not moved from vulnerability to bombs into a safe-crypt below the famous London church.

The fantastic and moving play, "The Lady Who Wishes to be Known as Madam," by Monckton Hoffe, climaxed a unique and entertaining program of pomp and circumstance, spice and humor, melody and rhythm, which made up the refreshing cocktail served to a jammed house at the Royal Victoria Theatre Saturday night by the all-star cast of the "Celebrity Parade."

JOURNEY'S END

"It is the journey's end," said Group Capt. D. C. M. Hume, A.F.R., A.E.S. A.F.L.A.S., M.E.L.C., national director of the Aid Cadet League of Canada, in aid of which the tour was undertaken, in a short speech. He had traveled with the cast of 29 across Canada, where the show was presented to 16,000 people in eight key cities before winding up in Victoria.

"But what an end," he continued. "We passed our $50,000 objective the opening night in Toronto and have received such an incredible reception across the country we are now four or five times beyond our original objective. We will have $250,000 before we are through."

The purpose and ideals of the Air Cadet League of Canada were explained to the audience by Capt. Hume, who praised the corps as a "well-directed youth movement which is instilling in the young lads of Canada a conception of the deencies of life." Funds derived from the show will be devoted entirely to equipping, uniforming and training the corps members, he said.

He paid tribute to their play-ers' generosity in giving their time free of charge and expressed appreciation of the co-operation by Famous Players, who donated theatres and staff, to the press and local air force committees, and to "all people of Canada."

TREAT CONSTIPATION
THE "BETTER WAY"

Stop "Dosing" Yourself! Get at the Cause Instead

LONDON, Canada: May be your constipation is the common kind, caused by lack of the proper "bulk" in your meals. If so, try the "Better Way" to treat it... by eating a crisp, delicious cereal regularly—KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN.

Eat ALL-BRAN every day, as a cereal or in hot muffins, and drink plenty of water... and you'll see how easy keeping regular can be. But remember, ALL-BRAN doesn't work like purgatives. It takes time. Get ALL-BRAN at your grocer's, in two convenient sizes, or in individual serving packages at restaurants. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

tume as Queen Victoria, stepped up to the footlights after the spirited finale of the evening, and thanked the audience for their "incredible reception." She commended the Air Cadet League and added that British Columbia was to be congratulated in being already so alive to the importance of the movement.

Telegrams of congratulation to Herbert Wilcox, director of the show, and to the entire cast, were read from Air Marshal W. Bishop, who originated the fund for the league, and from Hon. C. G. Power, Canadian Minister for Air. Mr. Wilcox then introduced members of the company who "performed a lot of the toughest jobs behind scenes." Smartly-uniformed members of the corps then presented bouquets of flowers to the women members of the cast.

The program opened with the arrival of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Woodward and party, when the R.C.A.F. band, performing magnificently under the direction of Flt.-Sgt. Edward Kirkwood, struck up the National Anthem. It was followed by the "Star-Spangled Banner," played in honor of Hon. J. Pierrepont Moffatt, United States Minister to Ottawa, who was in the gubernatorial party.

THE PROGRAM

The cadet corps of 48 grey uniformed boys marched smartly passed to the thunderous applause of the audience. Then the curtain rose with singing of "Captain of the Clouds" by A.C.2 Howard Scott in a finely modulated, richly-tinged baritone voice. The remainder of the entertainment followed, one clever act after another in rapid succession, without a hitch or a delay.

"Still Life," by Noel Coward, was played by a cast of 11: Moyne Macgill, Lady Hardwicke, Juan Root, Robert Coote, Colin Keith-Johnston, Anna Neagle, Joy Harrington, Dennis King, George Patton, Alfred Wallace and Dorothy Wordsworth. The chief honors in the satire-comedy go to Moyne Macgill, Lady Hardwicke, Juan Root, Dennis King and George Patton.

After this poignant and amusing piece came "Tops in Taps," a brilliant and graceful dance routine by Lee and Sandra, followed by an encore of a vigorous interpretation of "College Jitterbugs."

The talented team performed later in the show in "La Valse." Then Anna Neagle appeared again, in her famous dance number from the motion picture success "Irene," in which she wore the original scintillating blue satin gown. She made a lovely picture as she stepped out of a red lacquer frame, waving a huge blue feather fan, to sing her song, to the accompaniment of an electric organ, played by A.C.1 Colin Corbett. At its completion she was joined by dancer David Thimar of the Russian Ballet, and they performed an engaging waltz. David Thimar appeared later in a solo, "Begin the Beguine," in which he displayed the most exacting terpsichorean rhythm and pattern, drawing rounds of applause from the audience.

Outstanding was the singing of "The Lord's Prayer" by A.C. Scott, accompanied by A. C. Corbett, the two artists being effectively spotlighted on the stage, with a replica of painted glass windows in sacred designs in the background.

Moving also was the recitation of "High Flight" by Dennis King, the poem being written by the late P.O. John G. McGee. Introducing each section of the pro-

FINALE

In the final number, "The Lady Who Wishes to be Known as Madam," the following were the cast:

The narrator, Herbert Marshall (on 2 record), who explained the theme of "British history" statues coming to life as members of the "Immortality Club"; the Duke of Wellington, Dennis King; the common soldier, Robert Coote; Florence Nightingale, Lady Hard-

In the moving finale of the play groups of local women, soldiers, sailors and C.W.A.C.'s marched smartly by in the background.

Following the show, members of the company and a number of other guests were entertained at Government House.
